DON'T GO TO WAR!—HOOVER

W-G-N RETURNS ASCAP MUSIC TO AIR TOMORROW

Mutual System Ends 4½ Month War.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 11.—The music of the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers [ASCAP], off the air since Jan. 1, 1941, will be brought back over the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system on Tuesday evening, May 13.

Thus more than 1,250,000 musical compositions, including much of the most popular music in the world, will be available again for broadcasting by Mutual. W-G-N is the Chicago outlet for Mutual programs.

The return of ASCAP tunes was assured tonight at a meeting of the stockholders of Mutual when resolutions were adopted calling for acceptance of the Mutual-ASCAP agreement, terms of which were first laid before affiliated stations on May 1.

Many Groups Benefited.

"Naturally we are pleased with the result," said W. E. Macfarlane, Mutual's president, and Alfred M. McCosker, chairman, in a statement. "But more important than our satisfaction will be the great rejoicing by radio listeners everywhere; by singing talent, orchestras and advertisers, that the music war has ended and that Mutual led the way in breaking the log jam for the benefit of the American people."

The surprise action was announced on the eve of the opening of the convention of the National Association of Broadcasters, following two days of discussion with Mutual's affiliated stations.

Wins by More Than 2 to 1.

Fred Weber, general manager of Mutual, said that from the standpoint of population served by the stations voting, the preponderance of sentiment in favor of immediate return of ASCAP music was even greater than the 2 to 1 majority by which the deal was approved by the voting stations.

Mutual officials announced that after ASCAP music is returned to the air, ASCAP will release any affiliated stations from liability for using its music locally for at least 90 days. This is applicable to stations that opposed the plan as well as those that favored it.

ASCAP Scales Down Costs.

The Mutual-ASCAP agreement, to run until Jan. 1, 1950, provides that ASCAP will receive 3 per cent of the gross revenue of Mutual programs for four years and 3½ per cent for the fifth year, after certain deductions, including discounts and advertising agency commissions, are made.

Up to last Jan. 1, when ASCAP contracts with broadcasters expired, payments averaged between 4 and 5 per cent, netting ASCAP about 4 million dollars per year. Then ASCAP demanded 7½ per cent from the larger stations as negotiations for a new contract were begun. Broadcasters charged that the new fees would have cost them 8 million dollars a year.

Substitute Source Organized.

The National Association of Broadcasters, representing about 500 of the 800 stations in the United States, organized Broadcast Music, Inc. [BMI], in which National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system became the leading shareholders, to provide new and additional sources of music.

Since last New Year's day, Mutual and the other networks, and most stations have relied mainly on the BMI library. Now Mutual listeners again will hear the music of Victor Herbert, Irving Berlin, Sigmund Romberg, George Gershwin, Jerome Kern, and many other favorite composers.

Mutual plans a "welcome back ASCAP Music program" Tuesday evening, details of which will be announced later.

E. M. Antrim represented W-G-N in the negotiations.

Canada Seeks 32,000 Men in First Recruiting Drive

OTTAWA, Ont., May 11 (AP).—Canada launched its first recruiting campaign of the present war tonight in an appeal by Defense Minister J. L. Ralston for young men to fill the ranks for Britain's stand against new axis threats in the middle east. He said that because of the fall of Jugo-Slavia and Greece the Canadian forces will need 32,000 more men in the next two months.

THE FIFTH HORSEMAN

PROWLERS STEAL $7,000 SILK LACE

Spread, Work of 5 Years, Taken from Car.

Mrs. Lora Stern of Cleveland, O., the wife of Dr. Walter Stern, an orthopedic surgeon, used her leisure for the last five years to crochet a silk lace tablecloth. The design depicted the life of the hero of Lord Byron's poem "Childe Harold." Mrs. Stern used $1,800 worth of silk yarn in the tablecloth.

Chicago police were searching yesterday for the tablecloth and thieves who took it Saturday from an automobile parked in front of 2626 Van Buren street.

Dr. and Mrs. Stern stopped Saturday in Chicago on their way from a vacation on the west coast. They visited Walter S. Baer, head of the Universal Wheel and Abrasive corporation at the Van Buren street address. Baer's chauffeur met them at the train and drove them to the plant. A suitcase containing the tablecloth and clothing valued at $285 was stolen from the car while they were touring the plant.

Mrs. Stern said she needed only a few more hours to complete the tablecloth and that its value had been estimated at $7,000, altho she said she would not have sold it.

AFL CRAFTSMEN THREATEN TO TIE UP NAVY PROJECT

Boston, Mass., May 11 (AP).—Interruption of work on 30 million dollars' worth of projects in the navy yard appeared imminent tonight as the WPA announced it will send 1,100 workers to their jobs as usual tomorrow despite threats of union employés to quit unless the others were withdrawn.

WPA spokesmen in Washington said that the WPA projects are separate from those on which the American Federation of Labor members—925 craftsmen and laborers—are engaged.

E. A. Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the Building Construction Trades council [AFL], said the union men will not report, but will not picket the yard—"at least not tomorrow." Projects at the navy yard include construction of new piers, dry docks, and shop buildings.

Failure of the union workers to appear, Johnson said, would "seriously interrupt" the projects.

77 Square Miles of Cake, Cookies, Happiness, Tears!

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on back page.)

Camp Forrest, Tullahoma, Tenn., May 11.—The mothers of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, took over the 77 square miles of this city of barracks today.

Maj. Gen. Lawton.

It was Mother's day, and the 23,000 men here turned their routine life upside down to pay honor to 10,000 mothers and sweethearts who by noon were scattered over the rolling miles of scrub oaks, tents, and neat ivory-painted wooden buildings.

The mothers gathered by all methods of conveyance. Some 3,300 came in five special trains from the Chicago area. Thousands of others came by chartered bus, by automobile, or by earlier trains. In the words of Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, camp commander and commander of the 33d division, their arrival marked the first time in military history such a mass movement had been made.

It's a Strange Sight.

With them came a day hitherto alien to army life: Flowers on every mess table; women in every mess hall; concerned maternal eyes peering at the blankets on every bed; huge army reconnaissance cars, known familiarly as "pelicans" and "jeeps" turned into family omnibuses; and homemade cakes, jars of cookies, and magazines in every barracks.

Everything possible was done for their comfort, even a planned informality. If the mothers wanted to attend church with their sons, they could.

If they wanted to eat dinner and supper in company mess, they could. If they wanted to drive thru the spacious camp, to see the rolling target ranges, to inquire into the use of the howitzers, to gaze at the shining silver heights of the new water tower, they could climb into a great high olive "jeep," often with their sons beside them at the wheel, and go bowling merrily along.

The Day Is Theirs.

If they succumbed in midafternoon to the somnolence of Tennessee heat, they could pile into beds identical with those slept in nightly by their sons, and sleep.

Most of them did all of these things, and eagerly. Aside from that, the day was theirs and their sons', its use a matter of individual wish. For, in the words of Gen. Lawton:

"We think these people came down to see their kids and nothing else. They're not down here for set programs or to hear speeches."

The spectacular part of the day came in the morning when the special trains from the Chicago area chugged one by one, 11 coach trains, around the curve of the quartermaster warehouses and into the camp. Here, as each train moved in, 140 trucks were drawn up in beautiful formation, a regimental band struck out in sadly stirring strains; a corps of boys with the red cross of the first aid on their sleeves stood at attention, and 250 boys in blue denim work clothes ran toward the trains to carry baggage.

All at Attention.

Gen. Lawton, his staff car flying the bright silk pennants of his office, stood at attention. The 140 truck drivers stood at attention. The band played stiffly; and the mothers piled off pell-mell, hastily, eargerly, with their carefully clutched parcels of cake [to be entrusted to no strange boy in blue denim work clothes], their carefully saved magazines, and began to rush for the trucks, and to cry.

Few eyes could have remained dry. No military code yet has been devised that is stern enough to control the tear ducts of the eyes. Today no one tried.

Few of the mothers' sons were there to greet them. They were back with their regiments, waiting for the roaring trucks which would deliver their mothers, wives, and sweethearts to their company doors.

One little mother, holding tightly to a box of crushed cake and a battered suitcase, was so undone by the excitement of arrival that she forgot not only her son's company but also his name.

His name finally was found on her luggage.

"Baby! It's Mom!"

One mother, a gay flowered pink hat on her graying hair, spied her son, a tall, lanky private whose olive field uniform was made for a man four inches his inferior, long before her truck stopped.

"Baby!" she cried. "Baby, it's Mom! Aunt Mattie sent you some cookies."

As the lovely day wore on, a soft breeze always stirring beneath the deep blue sky, hundreds of little groups strolled over the wide grounds. Almost every cluster contained a camera and so much visible pride on the part of both mother and son, that it seemed as tho some one surely must burst.

WESTMINSTER, PARLIAMENT HIT IN HEAVIEST RAID

London Digs Out as Nazis Strike Again.

LONDON, May 12, Monday (AP).—Rescue squads toiled thru three new air raid alarms overnight amid the smoking ruins wrought 24 hours earlier in an all-out Nazi revenge attack that perilously damaged the houses of parliament, Westminster abbey, and Big Ben, and caused uncounted but heavy casualties.

The new raids sent thousands of Londoners scurrying to shelter, fearful of a repeat visitation of destruction, but the Sunday-Monday attacks were described as the lightest in three weeks.

Some bombs were dropped in the suburbs—far from the heart of the capital where destruction rained down in profusion Saturday night and early Sunday.

On Saturday night a British armada of 100 bombers assaulted Hamburg and waves of RAF planes again hit the city last night.

[Details of British air raids in northern Germany appear on page 5.]

Search Great Rubble Heaps.

The death toll of London's great raid will remain unknown until great heaps of rubble can be searched by swarming crews of rescue workers.

Among the buildings and objects destroyed Saturday night and Sunday were some of the most venerated symbols of empire.

But the spirit of defiance prevailed, as epitomized by the Rev. Jocelyn Henry Temple Perkins, sacrist of Westminster, who said his morning prayers in the bomb-scarred abbey.

Summarizing the damage done, he said, "the abbey, tho undoubtedly damaged gravely, is structurally intact except for a relatively small part of it under and in the immediate vicinity of the lantern tower."

The lantern is the central part of the abbey church and from it virtually every part of the abbey may be viewed.

Flames Destroy Pulpit.

"Despite every effort by a large number of firemen and our own fire watchers," the sacrist said, "we were unable to get the flames in hand before incendiaries destroyed the roof of the lantern, the pulpit and a great many pews.

Thousands of high explosive and fire bombs were rained on London by 300 to 400 Nazi planes in the light of Saturday night's brilliant moon.

The air ministry claimed seven Nazi bombers shot down last night, four by fighters and three by antiaircraft guns. On Saturday night 33 had been bagged. The total downed this month is put at 131.

Big Ben, the clock whose chimes broadcast thruout the empire was a symbol of unity to millions, the houses of parliament by its side, and Westminster hall, which has played its part in the story of England for nearly 1,000 years, were damaged seriously.

Bombs in House of Commons.

The debating chamber in the house of commons was wrecked, and will have to be rebuilt.

In the house of lords Capt. E. L. H. Elliott, resident superintendent, was killed at his post while assisting in fire fighting. Other members of the

NINE LIVES ARE LOST IN AUTO MASSACRE; TOLL IS YEAR'S RECORD

Nine lives were lost yesterday in the automobile massacre in the Chicago area. Seven persons were killed in traffic accidents during the day and two died of injuries suffered earlier in the week.

Chicago's 1941 Traffic Toll.

Police said the traffic fatalities were the largest for a Sunday this year. Highways were crowded and numerous minor accidents occurred in addition to the fatal crashes.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 311 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 235 were killed in Chicago, where 7,850 were injured in traffic during the same period.

END OF PEACE? WEEK MAY TELL STORY FOR U. S.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—Whether the United States shall take the final plunge into the European war may be determined this week.

With the war party and the antiwar party bombarding the White House with arguments and appeals, President Roosevelt is scheduled to make an important address to the world next Wednesday night. Both factions are proceeding on the assumption that the President in that speech will chart the country's course—either to go into the war as a full fledged belligerent or to stay out a while longer at least as a "nonbelligerent," assisting Great Britain in all ways short of actual fighting.

Question of Convoys.

The decision confronting the President is whether to order the American navy and air force into action to convoy arms cargoes to Britain and otherwise combat the German sea and air power. Four members of his cabinet have made speeches advocating such action and the President has indorsed their utterances. At the same time the midwestern and northwestern states have manifested vigorous opposition to such a step. It only remains for the President to declare his position in person.

The speech the President is to make at a reception given him and Mrs. Roosevelt by the American republics at the Pan-American union was first heard of a fortnight ago in a cablegram from London.

"Declaration of War."

British officialdom, which frequently learns of Roosevelt administration plans in advance of the American public, if not of the administration itself, understood that the President's speech would be a virtual declaration of war on Germany. Inquiry at the White House produced the information that it was true the President would make an important address about the middle of May and that it would be sensational.

Mr. Roosevelt, according to his physician, has recovered from his intestinal indisposition of the last few days and was reported tonight to be polishing up his final draft of the forthcoming sensational speech. That he himself regards the speech as highly important not only to the United States but also to the world at large is indicated by the arrangements to broadcast it by short wave radio to all countries. The President will speak at 11 p. m. [Chicago time] Wednesday.

Pleas of Interventionists.

The Fight for Freedom committee is urging the President to lead the country into outright war. The Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies is advocating the proclamation of a full emergency by the President, the convoying of ships to Britain, and other measures of belligerency against the axis powers. The America First committee is imploring the President to take none of these steps toward actual involvement in the war. A delegation of mothers is due here Wednesday to make a final antiwar plea to the President before his speech that night.

Representative George H. Tinkham [R., Mass.], a member of the house foreign affairs committee, today challenged President Roosevelt to submit the question of a declaration of war to congress.

Demands "Truthful Statement."

Tinkham demanded of the President "a truthful statement of his own position and his own intent," and asserted that "he should either deny or repudiate covert declarations of war by those around him or else he should avow them and be prepared to face the American people with the greatest betrayal of trust in the history of the republic."

At Boston, Mass., Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] told a Mother's day crowd of 3,000 on Boston Common that he would introduce an anticonvoy resolution as an amendment to the ship seizure bill in the senate this week.

"I measure my words when I say that the vote on that anticonvoy amendment will be a war vote," he said. "It will be a vote to decide whether the United States shall enter the war or stay out."

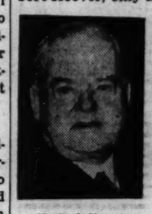
Mothers Ask Pledge.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 11 [Special].—Mrs. William A. Wendelburg, Wisconsin chairman of the National Legion of Mothers of America, announced today that a plea has been sent to President Roosevelt asking a proclamation from him promising he will not send troops to Europe. The Milwaukee chapter of Mothers Mobilizing Against War will make another trip to Washington, D. C., to try to persuade the President to keep the nation out of war.

WARNS CONVOY OF SHIPS PUTS U. S. IN CONFLICT

Declares America Is Unprepared.

New York, May 11 [Special].—Herbert Hoover, only living former President of the United States, speaking with great seriousness tonight counseled the nation against the use of American warships to convoy materials to Great Britain. The moment our navy is put into action, Mr. Hoover warned, we shall be at war.



Herbert Hoover.

Participation in the war, he continued, will jeopardize the future of America and also jeopardize aid to Britain and her allies. The former President's speech was broadcast over a national hookup.

To enter the war now, Mr. Hoover said, would harm Britain more than help her because the tools for fighting which she needs would have to be kept at home to arm America's unprepared fighting force.

Referring to demands that the United States navy be put in convoy service, the former President said it would be more consistent with American honesty and courage for the nation to face a straight issue of a declaration of war by the congress as provided by the constitution than to creep into an undeclared war. Until this is done, he said, the nation will remain disunited.

Will Accept Decision.

If the congress decides the issue, Mr. Hoover said, the people will accept that decision. National unity will not be achieved he asserted, until the war issue has been settled by democratic processes.

If we go to war, Mr. Hoover declared, it means the sacrifice of all liberty to a dictatorship, years and years of struggle and finally postwar bankruptcy in which the savings of all of the people will be lost and liberty will not return to the land for a generation.

The former President denied the statements of those who say the country already is at war, reminding them that the United States and Germany still maintain diplomatic relations.

TEXT OF SPEECH

Following is the text of Mr. Hoover's speech.

"For the last six months I have remained aside from the controversy on whether we should join in this war. I have been waiting to see the progress of our preparedness. I have wanted to see the situation abroad develop more fully. I had believed that the President was earnestly endeavoring to keep his promise to the American people of Oct. 23:

"'We will not participate in foreign wars and will not send our army, navy, or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside of the Americas, except in case of attack.'

Feels He Must Speak.

"In the past 10 days we have had many speeches and much propaganda, the meaning of which is to drive the American people into this war. One who has been honored by his country as a member of America's war council in the last world war and as its commander in chief in subsequent troubled years must learn something

SINGAPORE MILITARY PARLEY 'CONFIRMED' BY AMERICAN ENVOY

TOKIO, May 11.—Confirmation of Japanese press reports that military staff discussions will be held soon in Singapore, Straits Settlements, and that the United States will join them, is seen in a statement attributed to Clarence E. Gauss, new United States ambassador to the Chinese government. The Japanese news agency Domei stated that while he was at Kobe, Japan, en route to Shanghai, China, Gauss said: "Military authorities will meet in conference shortly at Singapore, coming from the Philippines, Australia, the Netherlands East Indies, Burma, and Chungking, China. Whether I will attend may be left for you to imagine."

WITH BUSINESS GETTING BETTER, WHAT OF RELIEF?

Quarter Million Still on Rolls in City.

Chicago pay roll and employment figures are higher now than they were before the great depression. The city's business advances recorded for March were among the most noteworthy in 14 years.

Yet there remain in Chicago 297,644 men, women, and children who depend for their living upon state and federal relief.

The armament program is spurring business and industry as it hasn't been spurred since world war days. Yet 8.7 per cent of Chicago's 3,384,556 population depends upon the state and federal governments for a livelihood. This roughly is one person of every 12.

Other Aid Not Included.

And these figures do not count the thousands who receive assistance from private charities, individuals, and churches, nor those who are wards in city and county institutions. The figures take into consideration only the 173,700 persons represented by 74,493 cases handled by the Chicago Relief administration—a division of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission—and the 123,944 represented by 37,444 carried on the rolls of the federal Works Projects administration in Chicago.

Who are these men, women, and children? How old are they? Are most of them men, or do women and children predominate? And from what races do they come? What were their occupations before they went on relief?

Some Other Questions.

The answers to these questions and analyses of the answers in this and articles to follow may make it possible to glimpse the future of relief in Chicago. These glimpses may suggest answers to this second set of questions:

1. Is state-federal relief here to stay?
2. If not, when may it be expected to disappear?
3. If relief is to be permanent, what may be its proportions?

Answers to the first set of questions were obtained from a survey by local administrative groups, under supervision of the IERC. This material is supplemented by two WPA surveys.

Eligibility Is Reëxamined.

The first purpose of the surveys was to bring about a reëxamination of the eligibility of relief recipients. The second was to provide accurate information as to needs, social characteristics, and resources for the guidance of relief agencies. Against this detailed information, sociologists have balanced past and present social and economic conditions in Chicago.

Of the detailed data, they considered of high importance that dealing with ages.

Almost half of those receiving direct relief—45.6 per cent—are under 18 years old. These are largely members of families whose head is on the relief rolls. Some of them, it is presumed, soon will be old enough to become self supporting—thus assisting in removing the family, or case, from the rolls.

Other Age Groups.

The next largest group—31.9 per cent—ranges in age from 25 to 44. Here again there is hope for employment. The third largest group are men and women from 45 to 64 years old.

The two smallest groups are relievers with ages from 18 to 24 years—8.6 per cent—and those over 65—3.4 per cent. Sociologists call the first group employable. For the latter, they believe, there is almost no hope of finding jobs.

Laymen who think of most relief families as being headed by males are shown to be far in error by the survey; 54 per cent of Chicago's direct relief load is made up of women. The white females were barely outnumbered by the white males—49.8 to 50.2 per cent. Colored females, however, outnumbered the colored males 59.8 to 40.2 per cent.

Negroes were shown to make up 41.8 of Chicago's direct relief population. In this connection, the WPA survey just completed shows an increase in Negroes on its rolls since February, 1939, of from 20 per cent to 22.6.

The WPA survey also shows a sharper increase of women enrollees, from 11.8 per cent two years ago to 17.9 per cent at present with a corresponding decline among the men, from 88.2 to 82.1 per cent. This indicates men have been more successful in obtaining private employment, according to Paul R. Kerschbaum, state statistician for the WPA.

An indication that the jobs are going to the younger men is found, he added, in the showing that the average WPA age has risen in the same period from 39.8 years to 43.8.

1 Out of 5 Employable.

Figures for employability of the IERC or direct relief population in Chicago, show only 20.6 per cent so classed. Employability standards have have changed since the survey was made, but basically an employable remains a person who can hold a job doing something, somewhere.

Racially, the whites are 22 per cent employable and the Negroes 18.7. Among the whites men between 44 and 65 and women between 18 and 24 were the age groups containing the most employables. Negro men and women between 25 and 44 listed the most.

Causes for unemployability were led by permanent disability, 34.7 per cent. Next was care of family, 22.5 per cent. [This means attending infants, minor children, or invalids]. Other causes in their order, were temporary disability, 19.7; over 65 years old, 10.6; under 18, 10.3, and student, 2.2 per cent.

Over One-third Are Unskilled.

Something of the background of the employable reliefers as a whole was learned during the survey by tabulating their former occupations. Of the 35,516 employable cases then on the Chicago rolls, 11,570 led the list as unskilled laborers. Domestic workers were next with 6,956, and semiskilled workers in manufacturing and other industries were third with 5,859.

Others in their order included inexperienced [young] persons, office workers, skilled workers and foremen in building, skilled workers and foremen in manufacturing, salesmen and kindred workers, professional and technical workers, proprietors, managers, officials, semiskilled building workers, and farm operators and laborers. In the last class were 178 cases.

Most on Relief Are Unhappy.

Public welfare executives, and even case workers, were in agreement that the majority of these people are unhappy on relief and WPA. That there is a minority class that is content was admitted.

That there is a much larger class that may never leave relief also is feared. This question vexes all who study relief:

What would have been the lot of these people 15 years ago, or before state-federal relief? That question and the methods of caring for the indigent in the 1926-'28 period will be discussed in a subsequent article.

BLAZE SWEEPS STOREHOUSES IN PRODUCE MARKET

Thousands of wooden boxes which were stacked in piles 40 and 50 feet high were destroyed by fire yesterday in the yards of the W. J. McIlvain company, 1413 South Racine avenue. The company deals in used fruit and vegetable boxes, baskets, and crates and is in the heart of the South Water produce market.

The fire swept two brick storehouses, one three floors high and the other two floors high. The flames raged so fiercely that a 5-11 alarm was sounded, bringing 35 pieces of apparatus to the scene. It was necessary to run hose lines thru windows of the Produce Exchange building, 1425 South Racine avenue, which is 11 stories high.

Thousands of spectators watched the blaze. Traffic at the three-carline intersection of Racine and Blue Island avenues and 14th street was tied up nearly three hours. The fire caused damage estimated at $25,000.

PURSE SNATCHERS STRIKE WOMAN.

Mrs. Hazel Wojtyla, 30 years old, 1860 North Hoyne avenue, reported to police yesterday that two thieves struck her on the eye while stealing her purse, containing $4.80, near Congress and Loomis streets.

LONDON: SCENE DURING BOMB RAID AND AFTER

Tribune Writer Tells of Fires' Glow.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—The Tribune correspondent today performed a melancholy task which has become almost routine. It began during one of the worst all night "bomb a minute" blitzes this city has suffered since the war began.

From a rooftop during the night I saw again the huge semicircle of fires. I heard overhead the almost constant whining of airplane engines—not individual planes but squadrons. I could see the reflections of the fires in the Thames, silhouetting the outlines of famous buildings still standing.

I could hear the whistle or swish of bombs as they descended. I could feel the tremor of the earth as the roar of exploding bombs numbed the eardrums.

Planes Caught in Light Beams.

Searchlights played about and sometimes caught enemy planes in a box of light as they were diving at targets and lending a crescendo to the multiple noises and sounds of an air attack. It was even possible to see enemy airplanes at times as they crossed the disc of the full moon. The bombers themselves seemed to swarm in like hawks.

The only new thing I observed was what seemed to be an unfamiliar blue glow of the incendiary bombs. Heretofore, they seemed to emit a white flame.

As day began to dawn, I took a walk amid broken glass, heaps of débris, and acrid smoke, stepping gingerly over fire hoses. Time and again I passed rescue workers digging out the living or the dead from débris while ambulances were waiting to take the human cargoes to the hospital or the morgue.

Pigeons Huddle on Bridge.

Amid the changing scenes of this morning's walk, one stands out, altho irrelevantly. When the rising sun was obscured behind sulphurous clouds of smoke, pigeons and sea gulls stood side by side, huddled compactly together, on the rail of a bridge. They faced the sun but did not move, seemingly bewildered whether this really was daylight or not. Somehow this picture fitted into that of people gazing at the ruins.

This afternoon I attempted to make an automobile trip to survey the most stricken regions, but in many places, because of craters, roped off areas, or danger from sagging walls, I was forced to thread my way on foot, often for blocks at a time.

Londoners Fill Streets.

I have seen Londoners go about their business after severe raids. I remember no Sunday afternoon in London when I have seen so many people walking on the streets. It was impossible to distinguish sightseers from refugees, except in cases where the latter were carrying belongings. One beautiful girl at 5 p. m. was standing dressed only in a mink coat over her shelter pajamas.

Today the crowd was silent. Time and again automobiles were forced to come to a dead stop to avoid running down pedestrians apparently still dazed and not realizing what was going on about them.

There was considerable evidence of the freakishness of the bomb blasts. In three buildings every story above the second floor was intact, even the windows not shattered, while the entire basement and first floor were caved in, giving the appearance of a building standing on stilts.

SENATOR BYRD ASKS FIGURES ON ARMS SUNK

Washington, D. C., May 11 [Special].—Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] asked today that the government disclose figures on the dollar value of war supplies from the United States sunk on their way to Britain.

Byrd said that because of the public interest aroused by recent demands that the United States "deliver the goods," he had addressed a telegram to Harry Hopkins requesting information on the value of equipment lost in transit.

"The argument has been advanced," Byrd told reporters, "that we have appropriated 7 billion dollars to furnish aid to Britain and we ought to see that that aid gets there."

PHIL LA FOLLETTE INVITES STUDENT BODY TO MEETING

Madison, Wis., May 11 [Special].—Phil La Follette, former governor of Wisconsin, who was denied permission to address students of Carnegie Institute of Technology tomorrow on behalf of the America First committee, tonight asked John B. Gordon, head of the Pittsburgh chapter, "what is the matter with the war mongers in Pittsburgh?" La Follette will deliver two other addresses in Pittsburgh tomorrow.

"For months," La Follette said in a telegram, "they have been advocating shedding American blood in other people's wars, but when it comes to justifying their position, they run home and hide. Please tell Carnegie Tech students that all I have to give is just the other side of the argument.

"Since Carnegie Tech authorities are unwilling to let the students listen to both sides, will you tell the students thru your newspaper columns that I extend to them a special invitation for Monday night's meeting?"

The administrative board of Carnegie Tech refused to permit La Follette to speak on the campus on the ground that a speaker for the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies could not be obtained to answer his arguments against American entry into the European war.

NAZI BOMBS HIT WESTMINSTER AND PARLIAMENT

London Digs Out as New Raiders Strike.

staff worked thru the night extinguishing flames and salvaging valuable records and relics.

Bombs also smashed the roof of the famous members' lobby, already hit in previous raids and which had been shored up by elaborate scaffolding. Doors were torn off and windows smashed.

What many consider the most magnificent roof in the world—that of Westminster hall, with its soaring arches and sweeping oak beams—was pierced by bombs, and the interior of the hall damaged. The hall was started by William Rufus in 1097.

Big Ben's Face Scarred.

It is believed to be the largest hall in the world with a roof unsupported by pillars. It is 238 feet long, 68 feet wide and 90 feet high. It was part of the old Westminster palace and adjoins the houses of parliament.

Big Ben's face was blackened and scarred, and the apparatus which broadcasts chimes to the world was put out of action. But its hands went on telling the time to Londoners and it still chimed the hours. Only slight damage was done to the masonry just above the clock.

Westminster abbey was open to the sky, and the roof over the lantern, the low square tower at the center of the building, had fallen in. The lantern, the absolute center of the abbey, is where the platform and coronation chair are set for the crowning of the kings and queens of England.

The deanery of Westminster abbey, one of the most perfect medieval houses in England, was destroyed and the dean and his wife were left with nothing but the clothing they were wearing.

The dean told reporters the loss of his personal belongings was nothing compared with his thankfulness that the fabric of the abbey was intact and that no irreparable damage could be done. The cloisters were flooded but otherwise uninjured.

Part of the débris of the dean's house fell on Cloister Garth, historic square of turf in the middle of the cloisters.

The most historic parts of the abbey were uninjured. The eastern part, where the royal tombs are situated, was intact.

The British museum was set afire by a shower of incendiaries, which burned thru the roof and set fire to the back of the building.

Most of the building's treasures had been removed to safety months ago and the damage was comparatively light.

Drop 100,000 Fire Bombs.

BERLIN, May 11 (AP).—Hundreds of German air force raiders hurled hundreds of tons of explosives and more than 100,000 fire bombs on London last night, the Germans reported today, in a reprisal raid called the mightiest assault of the war upon the British capital.

"North of the Thames in the broad area from the tower to King's Cross station flames attacked entire sections of the city," a pilot reported.

"One could recognize a great warehouse here, a large apartment building there, glowing like a mountain of hot cinders."

German raiders started great fires in the Thames bend, particularly in the commercial and Millwall docks and between Waterloo bridge and Victoria docks with "terrific effect," the high command asserted.

In the midlands German planes destroyed an airplane fuselage plant and motor works at Coventry and smashed two aluminum plants at Birmingham.

BLITZLAND TOUR: A JOURNEY THRU SMASHED CITIES

Writer Sees British Area After Week of Raids.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—Conducted by Gilbert H. Carr, director general of the American Ambulance service in Great Britain, a party of American newspaper men has just completed a tour of Blitzland—Bristol, Cardiff, Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham, and a northeast coast town of England severely attacked by German bombers.

The observers investigated the results of the luftwaffe's [German air force's] new technique—the blitzing of a city several nights in succession before switching to the next objective.

Perhaps the worst damaged of the centers visited was Liverpool, which now, after London, holds the record in these islands for successive nights under aerial bombardment.

Steel Buildings Still Stand.

Large areas had been smashed and burnt when the party arrived the morning after the city's seventh night of heavy raids. Here and there in the devastated areas stood tall, modern steel and concrete buildings still partly inhabitable. Older brick constructions had been reduced to mounds of rubble on which firemen still played their hoses.

A section where a number of streets converged was likened to a "scene from Mars." Amidst writhing hoses, soldiers pushed their demolition work, firemen quenched embers, and civilians carted away rescued belongings in perambulators and hand trucks of all descriptions. Considering that the city had undergone a week of night attacks, the loss of life was reported small.

Trucks Carry the Crowds.

Liverpool's transport problem had become extremely difficult. To replace street cars, all types of trucks and cars were pressed into service. Every truck carried roughly made steps on which citizens climbed aboard. Children made the most of the situation in getting free lifts.

Bristol and Cardiff, after a brief respite from heavy raids, presented a somewhat different picture.

Britons quickly adapt themselves to new conditions. On the morning after a raid there is much hurried movement, and the odor of burning wood and fabrics is in the air, but two days later things settle down. People move quietly in search of missing relatives and friends and lost possessions.

Cardiff, which resembles somewhat a New England university city, was comparatively little scarred, tho it was raided two nights before the party arrived.

Bristol Clean. Even in Disaster.

The ruins in Bristol, a clean, smokeless west port, still appeared fresh. In Manchester and Birmingham, however, observers said, grime and soot of the busy manufacturing centers already had begun coating the bomb scars.

In Leeds, where a visit was paid to the American ambulance training school, the news was flashed that a coast town had been severely blitzed overnight. The American ambulance cars, loaded with surgical equipment and medicinal requirements, rushed to aid in the rescue work.

An observer who accompanied an ambulance squad reported that a haze of smoke almost obscured the town as the ambulance approached. The Air Raid Precaution service had the fire situation under control and blazes started in the shopping center by incendiary bombs had been prevented from spreading.

Americans Lend a Hand.

In a V shaped area encompassing the most damage, this observer witnessed these sights:

Weary, begrimed soldiers, demolition workers and fire fighters being led from mobile canteens, gifts of citizens in an American town.

Two American ambulances engaged in rescue work were the gifts of citizens of Connecticut and Massachusetts.

A soldier fire fighter washed himself from the spurting leak in a fire hose before being fed at an American mobile kitchen tended by a pretty girl.

A toy shop owner who anticipated the bombing had rented another building and had had his new address notice printed. It hung on the remains of his old shop.

Many children still remained in the bombed area.

The tour disclosed firsthand evidence of the work accomplished with contributions by Americans to relief movements. In Liverpool the homeless were being fed from the Queen's Messengers, food convoys donated to the food ministry by the British War Relief society in America.

Officials paid high tribute to the work of the American Ambulance service, to which Americans have contributed $800,000. In each of the bombed towns visited, except in Liverpool, an American ambulance station has been set up. In Liverpool there is a substation.

WAVES OF RAF SMASH HAMBURG FOR THIRD NIGHT

New Heavy Bombs Used in North Germany.

LONDON, May 12, Monday (AP).—Hamburg, heavily blasted by the royal air force on Thursday and Saturday nights, again was attacked last night by British bombers, it was reported authoritatively today.

Bremen and other targets in northwest Germany also were attacked.

[Berlin acknowledged that several waves of English planes were engaged during the night in raids on northern German cities, and said they had dropped explosive and incendiary bombs, causing damage to "residential" sections.]

One hundred bombers had engaged in the raid on Hamburg Saturday night.

Nazis Admit Destruction.

The air ministry claimed, and the Germans confirmed, that widespread destruction and raging fires were left in already battered Hamburg. Shipyards and industrial plants again were the targets.

Describing the Saturday night raid the air ministry said the RAF again used their heavy new bombs.

"The night was so clear that when one of our heavy bombs left the aircraft I could see it going for 1,000 feet," one pilot reported. "Then came the most amazing sight I ever saw."

The flash of the bomb bursting, he said, was like a great flaming red ball half a mile across.

"Even at the height we were traveling we felt the kick of the blast," he continued. "Everything inside the ball seemed crumbling and burning, and the docks all around, as well as the sky, were lighted up."

He said industrial plants and factories, with their chimneys standing up like black tenpins against the moonlit waterways, were easy targets.

"Series of heavy explosive bombs fell across the freight yards, railway tracks, and yet more fires added to the destruction in the submarine building yards," he declared.

Coupled with the major attack upon Hamburg, the air ministry said that other formations raided the ports of Bremen, Emden, and Rotterdam; supply ships, docks, and oil facilities at La Pallice, France, and shipping off the Dutch and Danish coasts. A German naval vessel and two supply ships were reported hit.

Refinery Set Ablaze.

At La Pallice, on the southern French coast near La Rochelle, docks, oil stores, and a refinery were set blazing and much damage was done to buildings along the docks, it was said.

Numerous fights developed among the raiding craft and Nazi fighter planes challenging them in the brilliant moonlight.

Croats to Make Banjaluka Capital Instead of Zagreb

BERNE, Switzerland, May 11 (AP).—An announcement from Zagreb said today that Dr. Ante Pavelitch, chief of the new Croat state, would move his capital to the town of Banjaluka because Zagreb is too near the frontier. It added that he would divide the country into some 20 districts as was the case before Croatia lost her autonomy.

BRITISH ARMORED CARS SEIZE FORT ON IRAQ OIL LINE

Attack by Single Bomber Clears the Way.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 11 (AP).—British armored cars occupied Fort Rutba, an important and hotly contested station on the Mosul oil line to the Mediterranean, after a bomb attack by a single British plane, it was announced officially tonight. The announcement said the whole Rutba area now was under British control.

[The report was another in a series of conflicting accounts of the fighting around Rutba, which grew sharper after the British announced the occupation of the Rutba airdrome last Friday. An Iraqi communique said the British had been forced to retire westward after an unsuccessful attack and the Iraqis said they still were holding the fort Saturday after a 20 hour battle. The Sunday announcement by the British, however, indicated the fort finally is in British possession.]

Besides its importance to the oil pipe line, Rutba is an air and highway junction of routes connecting Palestine, Syria, and Bagdad.

RAF Bombards Mosul.

The Royal Air Force carried the war against Iraq to the northern oil fields with a heavy raid on Mosul, communications center on the Tigris river 230 miles northwest of Bagdad.

Twelve direct hits were scored on airdrome buildings and a transport park at Mosul, which is on the west bank of the Tigris and opposite the ancient city of Nineveh, one time capital of the Assyrian empire and reputed location of the tomb of the prophet Jonah.

In continued attacks on Iraqi positions in the south damage was inflicted by the RAF on barracks at Amara, Diwaniya, Nasiriya, and Qaraghan.

Quiet Prevails at Basra.

At Basra, at the head of the Persian gulf, and at Habbaniyah airdrome, 60 miles west of Bagdad, quiet prevailed.

[The Iraqis described the situation of the British at Habbaniyah as "critical" with "all military objectives of the enemy within the range of our artillery, and not a single building or depot left standing." The German radio in a broadcast heard in New York said Iraqi troops, after heavy counterattacks, "succeeded in reoccupying part of Habbaniyah airdrome on Friday."]

Reports reaching Cairo said Premier Rashid Ali al Gailani's efforts to gain Moslem support had been rebuffed both by Saudi Arabia and Iran [Persia].

King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia was said to have informed the Iraqi premier that he was unable to offer any assistance or protection. These same advices said Rashid Ali sent a personal envoy to Teheran only to be told that Iran "completely disapproved" of his revolt.

38,000 ITALIANS TRAPPED IN FORT 9,000 FEET HIGH

British Forces Continue Advance in Ethiopia.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 11 (AP).—Imperial forces have made important gains in Ethiopia and have captured a number of additional prisoners and inflicted casualties among axis forces in North Africa, the British middle east command announced today.

Arrow locates objective of British drives.

Indian troops advancing from the north took two strong positions and 150 Fascists in the Amba Alaji sector of Ethiopia, 280 miles northeast of Addis Ababa. Another column advancing from the south made important headway, inflicting heavy losses on the Fascist defenders. Amba Alaji is a 9,000 foot high natural fortress. The British said 38,000 Italians are at bay there, with their ultimate capture inevitable.

Action by Advance Patrol.

At Tobruk, in Libya, 80 miles west of the Egyptian frontier, the British said one of their advance patrols surprised and broke up an Italian unit digging trenches near the outer perimeter of the port's defenses.

The patrol killed or wounded the Fascists who tried to escape and took the remainder prisoner.

At Sollum, in Egypt, other British patrols likewise inflicted casualties on the axis forces.

British bombers roaring down upon Italy's Sicily island in surprise daylight raids machine gunned fleeing officers and soldiers and caused "extensive damage" to German Stuka bomber nests at Catania and Comiso. Planes parked at both landing fields, from which Stukas have flown to harass British shipping in the Mediterranean, were successfully raided.

Strike Again at Tripoli.

British bombers also struck again at Tripoli, major Italian African port. Large bombs caused one big explosion and several fires in Tripoli harbor. One stick of bombs landed on the power station.

The British also made raids on Derna airdrome, Ain El Gazala, and Jedabaya, all important axis bases in Libya.

Axis warplanes raided the Suez canal zone for the third successive night last night, causing slight damage to property and injuring one person.

Italians Claim Two Cruisers Hit.

ROME, May 11 (AP).—A continuation of the air and naval battle which began in the central Mediterranean Thursday was reported by the Italian high command today which said two more cruisers had been badly hit in repeated bombings of a British naval formation.

The Italians previously had reported six warships, including two battleships, two cruisers, an aircraft carrier, and a destroyer, and six merchantmen torpedoed or bombed in the strait off Sicily when German and Italian planes attacked all day Thursday.

[The British admiralty said the action began with an air and naval bombardment of the Italians' Libyan port of Bengazi early Thursday and that not a single British warship was so much as damaged in subsequent axis air attacks.]

Today's Italian communique placed the newest action in the western Mediterranean, indicating the British naval force was moving back toway Gibraltar after its foray.

Meanwhile the Italians reported that occupation of the Cyclades islands of Greece, the group scattered across the entrance to the Agean sea north of Crete, has been completed.

Stukas Drive Off British.

BERLIN, May 11 (AP).—Two British cruisers and three destroyers which shelled the Bengazi fortress and city last night in a new attack on Libya were driven off by German Stuka dive bombers, informed sources said tonight. The Stukas were said to have scored hits with heavy bombs.

Hitler on Hudson

[Acme Photo.]

Rock slide on New Jersey Palisaides, showing the face which is supposed to resemble Hitler's.

Yonkers, N. Y., May 11 [Special].—Passengers aboard the Yonkers ferry were startled one recent morning to find a grim likeness of Adolf Hitler staring at them from a bluff across the Hudson river on the New Jersey side. Measuring about 120 by 150 feet, the head is said to be the largest natural full stone face in the world, and resembles Der Fuehrer even to the lock of hair over one eye—caused by foliage on the ledge that serves as the crown. The huge face resulted from a recent slide.

TURKEY AWAITS NAZI PROPOSALS FROM VON PAPEN

Hears He Brings Extensive Economic Plans.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 11 (AP).—Reportedly bearing proposals for a widespread new economic agreement between Germany and Turkey, Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, was expected to arrive here today by plane from Berlin. He had train reservations tonight for Ankara.

Informed Turkish sources said that the Iraqi war minister, Madji Shefket, who is in Ankara, was "anxiously awaiting" Von Papen's arrival.

Possible Trip to Europe.

Some sources said Shefket has passport visas for Sweden, Russia, and Iran, which was taken to indicate he anticipated a possible trip to Europe and the possibility that the direct route to Iraq over the Istanbul-Bagdad railroad would be closed to him before his return.

The Turkish press, meanwhile, carried out a vigorous campaign against minority groups accused of attempting to evade military service. Armenians, Greeks, and Jews comprise the largest part of the minorities.

Subject to Prison Terms.

The Journal d'Orient pointed out that those who deliberately make themselves unfit for military service are subject to long imprisonment.

The Turkish radio interrupted its programs to broadcast a message to the Turkish ambassador in Athens informing him that "proceedings have been opened with the German government for the return to Turkey of you and your staff.

"Consuls in Salonika, Piraeus, and Gumuldjina will remain at their posts."

Nazis Report 80,000 Tons of Ships Sunk in 3 Days

BERLIN, May 11 (AP).—The high command today announced new British shipping losses which informed Germans said brought the total of the last three days to about 80,000 tons. U-boats during operations in the North Atlantic sank 29,000 tons. A British submarine was badly damaged by a torpedo. In waters around England German bombers sank one merchant ship of 5,000 tons in convoy.

Bombers, Beware! London Firm Threatens Prosecution

LONDON, May 11 (AP).—Posted on the wall of a bombed burned out building after last night's severe raid, this sign still says, warningly: "Any one found damaging these premises will be prosecuted."

U. S. UNPREPAREDNESS STRESSED IN ADDRESS BY H. V. KALTENBORN

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 11 [Special].—H. V. Kaltenborn, radio commentator in a nation wide broadcast today stressed the recent observations of Capt. Maxwell M. Corpening, Chicago Tribune correspondent, that the American army lacks proper training and equipment for engaging in modern warfare. Capt. Corpening has just returned from a 16 months trip thru the European and African war zones, and his observations and impressions were contained in recent Tribune articles.

"Capt. Corpening is a West Pointer and an experienced military observer," Kaltenborn said. "No single observer's judgment on a world war is conclusive, but Capt. Corpening's opinions are in general agreement with those of other dispassionate Americans who have visited the fighting fronts."

Kaltenborn quoted Capt. Corpening's statement that the British "have four million fighting men available with equipment for them steadily growing better. With these, and the still unconquered navy in action, the British can hold out indefinitely."

Kaltenborn said: "Capt. Corpening sees Britain's chief weakness as the lack of sufficient numbers of fighting and bombing planes. If his conclusions are correct, it is obvious that the American army is neither trained nor equipped for modern land warfare."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 11.—The German railroad announced tonight that civilian travel will be sharply cut from May 29 to June 3. Citizens were urged to refrain from Whitsuntide trips, and those who insist on Whitsuntide outings were told to select destinations that may be reached without using trains. BRITAIN'S ENVOY LAYS A WREATH ON GOLDEN BOOK

Halifax Honors War Dead; Hears Rescue Sermon.

Viscount Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, yesterday laid a wreath on the Golden Book in the Chicago Historical Society museum commemorating the 4,000 world war dead from Cook county. This incident climaxed the third day spent here by the diplomat as part of his tour of the middle west.

Lord and Lady Halifax were escorted thru the museum by Joseph M. Cudahy, meat packer and acting president of the society, and L. Hubbard Shattuck, director of the museum.

Coming to the world war relics room, Lord Halifax proceeded rapidly until reaching the Golden Book, where he deposited the wreath. The couple than left for a drive thru the north suburbs. Consul General Lewis Bernays gave a lunch for them at the Tavern club. In the evening they dined with Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick Blair in Lake Forest.

Attend Episcopal Service.

They attended the morning service at St. James's Episcopal church, Huron street and Wabash avenue, where the Union Jack and the American flag were prominently displayed on either side and just in front of the altar.

The Rev. Duncan H. Browne, S. T. D. conducted the services.

After a hymn he opened the sermon, "To What Quality In Us Would Jesus Appeal?" Christianity can appeal to softness, avarice, and many other evil characteristics, as well as other qualities, but softness and neglect of duty were not part of Jesus, according to the Rev. Mr. Browne.

Tells a Story of Rescue.

He told a story of a ship sinking off the Atlantic coast, and of several young sailors in the rescue crew who pointed out to their old captain that the wind was blowing off shore and the tide was running out. One of them said it would do no good to go out because they could not return.

"'We've got to go out,'" the old man said, in the Rev. Mr. Browne's sermon. "'We don't have to come back.'"

After the collection, the "Star Spangled Banner" and then "God Save the King" were sung.

Lord and Lady Halifax left just before midnight on the Santa Fe for Kansas City. Lady Halifax is to return to Washington, D. C., from Kansas City tomorrow. The ambassador will return to Chicago Wednesday night to stay in the city overnight, going to Washington by plane Thursday morning.

Oust Jews from 146 More Shops in Paris District

VICHY, France, May 11 (AP).—Following closely the promulgation of German anti-Jewish regulations in occupied France, government decrees today turned over the management of 146 more Jewish owned shops in the Paris region to gentile administrators.

JANE NELSON.

Jane Nelson, contralto who won the title of the best woman singer in the 1939 Chicagoland Music Festival, will be featured with Kathryn Witwer, soprano, on this evening's Pageant of Melody program over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 9:30 to 10:15 o'clock.

Miss Nelson is a Chicagoan and a graduate of Senn High school. Three weeks ago, just after her 20th birthday, she made her debut in Kimball hall.

Her solo this evening will be "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from "Samson and Delilah." Later she will be joined by Miss Witwer in the barcarolle from "Tales of Hoffman" by Offenbach.

Appearing with the two soloists will be the W-G-N Concert orchestra, directed by Joseph Johnson in the absence of Henry Weber, and the W-G-N chorus directed by Robert Trendler.

Poles' Premier Flies Sea in a Bomber Made in U. S.

LONDON, May 11.—Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, premier of the Polish government in exile, returned yesterday from America aboard a bomber made in the United States, the ministry of information announced tonight. He had spent nearly two months in Canada and the United States. Polish circles said his visit laid the foundations for increasing Polish contributions to the allied cause.

N. Y. HOME GUARD PARADE FAILS TO STIR 5TH AVENUE

New York, May 11 [Special].—Members of the 17th regiment of the New York state guard made their first public appearance today as they marched up Fifth avenue to attend an evensong service at St. Thomas church on the occasion of Mother's day.

Mustered into service in January, the men impressed onlookers with their nonmilitary appearance in general. Their function in case of an emergency would be to guard vital points in the city and state.

Out of town visitors noted the apparent indifference of New Yorkers to the spectacle. Many failed even to salute or raise their hats at the passing of the colors. This was the more noticeable here, where war clamor and hysteria are rampant.

The men of the regiment were dressed in official state guard uniforms which have been described as resembling overalls. Olive drab in hue, the uniform is of the jumper type and short, laced leggings are worn with it during drill.

The men were led by their senior officers, most of them elderly, being either retired army officers or former National Guard commanders.

U. S.-Argentina Trade Pact May Be Signed Next Week

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, May 11 (AP).—Government circles reported today that the long delayed commercial treaty between the United States and Argentina probably will be signed next week, to become effective immediately. The agreement, originally formulated in 1939, reportedly would affect all aspects of trade.

NAZI PAPER SEES U. S. FARM RUIN IN F. D. R. POLICY

Predicts World Markets Will Be Lost.

BERLIN, May 11 (AP).—In an article on the blockade, the Frankfurter Zeitung tonight warned of the consequences of President Roosevelt's policy for the American farmer.

Mr. Roosevelt, whom the Nazi press calls "the new Wilson," will not accomplish his "objective of finally checkmating Germany thru a war of hunger against Europe," the newspaper said.

"But he will accomplish something," the paper added. "He will ruin the market for American farm products after the war and American farmers then can thank him that he sacrificed their interests for his illusions."

Gibraltar Battle "Coming."

While the German air force continued to bomb British island ports as a part of Germany's counter-blockade program, the German news service Dienst aus Deutschland pointed to Gibraltar, British fortress controling the western entry to the Mediterranean, as the coming battlefield.

"The rebellion in Iraq binds English forces in the near East and forces and reserves in India stand ready," the service said. "An oil war has begun. The Arab world is arming for a 'holy war' for ardently awaited freedom. Turkey is at the point of championing exclusively Turkish interests. The English route to India is in danger.

All Fronts Cry for Aid.

"England has a new front, a war of several fronts. England must conduct a fight for the motherland, the battle of the Atlantic, war in the Mediterranean, fight for the Suez and Egypt, and endure an oil war while the battlefield around Gibraltar emerges on the horizon. London strategists no longer can dispose of empire reserves with a free hand. All fronts are screaming for men and material. Against the anguished prayer for American help stands arrayed the reality of the strongest and best army [German], the Italian armored forces and an armed Japan ready to join the fray."

Roosevelt Move Forecast.

The foreign office mouthpiece, Deutsche Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz, took notice of the speaking tour of the United States by the British ambassador, Lord Halifax.

"The meaning of his lecture tour obviously is to prepare the ground psychologically on his part for what —as he expects—Roosevelt in a few days will communicate to his people: forced support of England, which necessarily must bring the United States closer to the brink of war."

It has been symptomatic of British representatives in America during this war to break the ground a few days before important decisions of the United States government are to be announced, Korrespondenz stated. As an instance, it pointed to the appeal voiced by the late Lord Lothian, Halifax' predecessor, which was followed by Mr. Roosevelt's outline of the lend-lease bill.

PAPERS OF UNITARIAN LEADER ARE SEIZED BY CENSOR AT BERMUDA

ABOARD S. S. EXCAMBION AT BERMUDA, May 11 (AP).—Dr. Charles R. Joy, European director of the Unitarian service, protested to the British minister in Lisbon and the chief censor at Bermuda today against seizure of all his papers yesterday. The ship, with former King Carol of Rumania among its passengers, docked at Hamilton yesterday.

Dr. Charles R. Joy.

Joy, returning after seven months aiding prisoners in French concentration camps and refugees in Portugal, asked the British officials whether his papers would be returned by air mail immediately or if he should invoke the aid of the American state department.

Among the papers were reports on the camps and notes for a series of addresses. To obviate the possibility of difficulty, Joy said he had consulted the British minister at Lisbon who wirelessed Bermuda vouching for him.

He said the censor gave him no explanation of why the papers were held, but said he supposed it was desired to extract information concerning conditions in France.

Toronto Doctor to Take Banting's Research Post

OTTAWA, Ont., May 11 (AP).—Dr. Duncan Graham, head of the department of medicine at the University of Toronto, has been appointed to the national research council for three years. He will take the place of Sir Frederick Banting, co-discoverer of insulin, who was killed in an airplane crash in Newfoundland while en route to England.

FRANCE HONORS JOAN OF ARC AS UNITY SYMBOL

VICHY, France, May 11 (AP).—Unoccupied France today celebrated the fete of the Maid of Orleans as the country's day of national unity.

Joan of Arc was described by the chief of state, Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, as "a martyr of national unity, a symbol of France."

Petain read a message to the people from his villa on the Riviera. It evoked the spirit of the maid and called for dedication of "our fidelity and our hope" to St. Joan.

That it was against the English that Joan of Arc led French troops to victory was not stressed in the unoccupied zone.

FEARS HITLERISM TRIUMPH EVEN IF HITLER IS BEATEN

Krueger Tells Perils of Our Entry Into War.

If America enters the European war, Hitlerism will triumph thruout the western world even tho Hitler's armies are annihilated, Maynard C. Krueger, professor of economics at the University of Chicago, predicted yesterday. He spoke at an anti-war rally sponsored by the Hyde Park chapter of the America First committee in Graham Taylor hall, 5757 University avenue.

Prof. M. C. Krueger.

Democracy is doomed if America enters the war, he said. But, he continued, the United States cannot stand by with a "business as usual" attitude.

Mobilize Courage, He Pleads.

"I do not believe that political democracy can be successfully defended," he asserted, "unless we go ahead now and finish the democratic revolution which was begun in 1776. That means mobilizing as much energy and courage and vision in the extension of the democratic principle into every cranny of American life as is now being mobilized for another invasion of Europe.

"Business as usual is also suicide for democracy," he said, "for it was in the soil of business as usual that the roots of Fascism were nourished."

Assails Deceitful Strategy.

Prof. Krueger asserted that President Roosevelt must now decide which pledges he is going to keep—those he made to the British guaranteeing their victory over Hitler or those he made to the people of the United States to keep America out of war.

"The speed with which the Roosevelt administration has moved toward war," he declared, "has been matched only by the magnificent deceit of the 'steps short of war' strategy. During the last month many people who have gone along with the President thus far have begun to see that the 'steps short of war' line was just mouthwash.

"The convoy issue makes that clear," he said.

WAR VETERAN KILLS SELF.

Waterloo, Ia., May 11 [Special].—Despondent because of a bronchial ailment, Frank Fortunski, 52 year old world war veteran, committed suicide this morning by firing a rifle bullet into his brain. He formerly operated a flower and bulb farm here.

15,000 MOTHERS GET PETITIONS TO HALT WAR DRIFT

Fifteen thousand folders calling upon President Roosevelt to keep his pledge that no American soldiers would be sent to fight on foreign battlefields were distributed to mothers at city churches yesterday. The mothers were asked to mail them to the President.

The folders, prepared and distributed by We the Mothers Mobilize for America, Inc., said, in part:

"I expect you to honor your pledge, Mr. President, and keep the United States of America out of this foreign war! . . . In conscience, Mr. President, you cannot oblige my son to die on foreign battlefields to right the wrongs of foreign peoples."

ONCE NAVY ACTS U. S. IS AT WAR, HOOVER WARNS

Country Not Equipped to Fight, He Declares.

of the principles of national defense and our setting in the world.

"It is, therefore, my duty to speak out of my experience. I hope that by sober discussion of the facts, I may contribute something of thought in this most fateful decision.

"I do not need to express again my abhorrence of the whole totalitarian movement or its dangers to the world. That there be no misunderstanding, let me state at the outset that I support provision of the maximum tools of war to Britain; that I am convinced we can give this maximum during her next critical months only if we keep out of this war; that putting our navy into action is joining this war; that the whole European war situation is in transformation; that America is as yet unprepared even for adequate defense; that our people are not united.

"To go in now is neither wise nor for the interest of either Britain or ourselves. In the anxiety of the moment many do not recognize the facts.

"As I have listened to these recent speeches it has constantly recurred to my mind that the problem before Mr. Roosevelt is far more difficult and complex than many of these speakers imagined.

"It is now proposed that we should put the American navy into action. That is a straightforward, understandable proposal which boldly makes clear the meaning of words like convoys or patrols. That is joining in this war, once and for all. From here the steps are automatic.

"Our navy must attack German submarines, ships, and planes, if it is to be of any use. To make it effective then we must expand naval and air bases abroad. We must equip these bases with expeditionary forces. And that is war for long years to come.

DENIES U. S. IS IN WAR

In Position of Risk, but No Killing, He Says

"There are those who say we are already in this war. That is not true. We are in a position of risk. But war has not been declared between ourselves and the axis. Diplomatic representatives are still maintained on both sides. Our treaties are still in force. There is no killing of men between us. If this war were ended tomorrow, it would not be necessary for us to make a new peace with Germany.

"I am not arguing the spirit of our relations with Germany. I am only discussing the situation which exists. But it is a certainty that we shall be at war the moment our navy is put into action. We are in the war when we send our boys either by air or by sea or on expeditionary forces with an intent to shoot at the Germans. Let us not coddle ourselves by thinking otherwise.

"It would be more consistent with American honesty and American courage for us to face the straight issue of a declaration of war by the congress as the constitution provides than to creep into an undeclared war. It is due our people that the congress should vote on the real question which underlies all this: 'Shall we declare war on Germany or Italy or Japan?'

"In a national debate on that issue the whole of the facts could be placed before the American people and the people could reflect their views to the congress. That question once openly determined by the only open process democracy knows, then our people would accept that decision—whatever it might be. The full facts and the truth is the way to achieve national unity.

"We must face some hard facts. And there is among them the transformation of the military and political situation abroad. There is our unpreparedness. There is the practical aid that Britain now requires and requires at once. There is the lack of unity of our people.

"This is no time for wishful thinking. Upon our decision depends the fate of our nation. It is the time, of all times, for a sober and frank appraisal of new facts and new situations.

STYLE OF WAR CHANGES

More Hitler Victories Is Seen as Possibility

"The first hard fact is the transformation of the character of this war. No one can deny the grim possibility that Hitler may take Suez, Iraq, North Africa, and the Mediterranean. This would not, however, cut the vital lifeline of Britain. It might even release that British fleet to protect their Atlantic lanes. In any event, Hitler can occupy all of continental Europe.

"And from all this area he will get ample food supplies and raw materials for the German people. True, he is blockaded by the British fleet, but the blockade cannot starve the German people or cut off their vital raw material supplies. It is only the people in the occupied democracies who will starve. Having been disarmed to their very carving knives, they cannot revolt.

"A second phase of this transformation is that substantial army fighting seems likely to go into the background for many years. The British armies cannot invade Hitler's Europe. Nor do I believe with all the 6,000,000 men that Hitler commands and his superior air force that he can now cross the channel to England. To invade Hitler's Europe would require us to prepare 5,000,000 men in addition to the British army.

"This time to invade Germany we would need to land them quickly and that might take 40 million tons of ships to carry our army over the Atlantic. And they might not be able to land even then. It would take 10 years to build those ships. And Hitler could not start toward the United States without equal preparation.

"Therefore, with this transformation it does not appear that this war can be brought to a conclusion by armies or navies for years and years to come.

No Answer to Night Bombing.

"The undetermined weapon against Hitler is air power. And the character of air war is also being transformed. It is rapidly emerging to be long range bombing with fighter planes to defend against the bombers. Accurate action in destruction of industrial and military objectives by daylight is no longer possible because of the efficiency of fighter planes on both sides. Manufacture of more and more planes will thus continue on both sides.

"But so far there is no effective answer to night bombing. It serves mostly to destroy large objectives, the cities and harbors, reducing them to rubble and killing civilians. And in this destruction Hitler has to fly only one-third the distance that the British have to fly, to reach his point of attack.

"And there is a transformation in the German blockade of England. The long range bomber is developing as a primary weapon in the attack upon harbors and upon ships. Submarines are today partly scouts, sending word to the air forces. Naval protection of Britain's sea lanes is now subsidiary to air protection.

"This moving transformation of the relation of army power, sea power, and air power presents new situations which are not yet clear. They involve many new considerations. They emphasize England's immediate need which I will discuss later on.

AMERICA IS UNPREPARED

Calls Japan's Alliance with Axis Threat to U. S.

"The second hard fact we must frankly face is that in the last war Japan was our ally and we had no need to defend the Pacific. But Japan is now openly allied to the axis. She only awaits a favorable moment to realize her ambitions in Asia. That opportunity comes to her if we go to war in the Atlantic. Even if she does not open war upon us, her action and attitudes will be so potentially dangerous to us that we must instantly strengthen our defenses in the Pacific.

"The third of these hard facts that we have to face is our unpreparedness. We have been slow to organize for defense, as is always the case in democracies.

"We are not prepared to go to war. Our industry will not be tuned up for another 8 or 10 months to produce enough of the tools of war to equip our own defense and at the same time supply the needs of Britain. We do not have 300,000 men who are sufficiently equipped with planes, tanks, and guns to meet 300,000 Germans, to say nothing of victory over 5,000,000 of them.

Holds Army Too Small.

"We will not even have 1,500,000 men so equipped for probably another 12 months. We have no substantial air force of the type now being used in this war. It is true we have a magnificent navy, but even that is not yet big enough for the job which it may have to undertake if we join in this war.

"And preparedness for war consists not alone of men and tools, and munitions. It also embraces the spirit of a people. We must have a united people to make successful total war. We are united in resolution to defend the western hemisphere from military aggression. We are united in building whatever of a war machine is necessary for this purpose. We are united in our condemnation of aggressor nations. We are united in wanting to help England defend our independence.

FINDS LACK OF UNITY

Contends Majority Opposes Warlike Action

"But beyond this we are a divided people. Do I need to prove this disunity? There is an obvious large majority of people who oppose the sending of our boys either on our navy, or on convoys, or airplanes, or expeditionary forces where they may have to shoot or be shot at. These oppositions are strongest in our youth and it is youth who must die. There is no unwillingness in them to die to defend our hemisphere.

"And to have a united people the government must be united with the will of the people. A divided people cannot act effectively in the supreme issue of total war. That failure in unity was part of the disaster of France. The first necessity is to follow an objective upon which our people will agree.

What to Do Now?

"History will assess the condemnation or the praise for the policies and the methods which have brought us to these dangers. That is not the question now. The question is what to do from here on.

"Our every sympathy, our interest is to assist the heroic defense of England. We have pledged ourselves to give Britain the aid of our factories and our farms.

"Her most critical period is right now. It is during the next months. What is the urgent need of England as expressed by her leaders time and again? Plainly she needs bomber planes to guard her sea lanes. She needs bomber planes and fighter planes to offset the attacks upon her cities and her harbors. She needs tanks, munitions, and food. She needs merchant ships to replace her losses. She needs minor naval warships to guard her sea lanes.

"We are today giving her only a part of the scant production of our industries and retaining the other part for our own preparedness.

"If we join this war we must join in earnest. We shall lose it any other way. If we join we must at once increase our army to 3,000,000 or 5,000,000 men. We would have to use a larger part of our immediate manufactures to supply our own army. We would have to use a larger part of our air production to defend our own coast cities. We would have to increase at once our protections for the Pacific coast and our island possessions.

"We would have to use a larger part of our production of fighter and bomber planes for them. We would have to hold merchant ships in reserve to carry troops to protect them. We are not building enough merchant ships now to meet British needs. We would have to use our light naval craft to convoy and protect our own sea lanes, especially in the Pacific.

"In net, if we join this war we must use a larger portion of our present scant production for our own equipment and defense. We would have to do this at once. And that means if we join in this war we must give Britain less tools of war during her most critical period.

"If we stay out of this war we can take more risks in parting with our tools of war.

"The British have said time and time again that if we give them the tools, they have the man power to repel invasion, they have the men to man the warships, the merchant ships, and the airplanes.

PEACE, HIS SOLUTION

Least Perilous Road We Can Take, He Warns

"Today we are confronted with not one problem but many. What is the constructive American course amid these problems? Is it not clear that we will give less tools to Britain if we join in the war? The solution is not for us to go to war, but to give her every tool that will really aid her regardless of our own preparedness.

"There are risks in this course, but it is the least perilous road we can now take. This solution will not please extremists on either side. Common sense and stark truth rarely do. And I am convinced that here lies the road to national unity that is so essential to America at this time.

Fate of Nation at Stake.

"We must also think other things thru. And there are some other very disagreeable questions that must be answered before we take the plunge to war. We cannot refuse to face the facts of the situation when the fate of the nation is at stake.

"We wish to aid Britain, but we must face the fact that if she cannot maintain the independence of the British Isles with the tools and policies I have mentioned, it cannot be maintained by our joining in the war. If we are in the war and should Britain fail, we would be left to carry the war alone. And that war against Nazi controled Europe will have to be fought at a distance of 3,000 miles and for years and years.

"In that event are we going to blockade Europe? If so, are we going to starve the 40 million people in Great Britain? And how will we bring such a war to a conclusion?

"What the course of the American people may be in this conflagration of the world cannot rightly be determined now. We cannot appraise all of the factors. At present we cannot judge the effect of the transformation going on in this war. But there are some things we can state with assurance.

"The Germans need have no momentary satisfaction in our unpreparedness. That will be forthcoming. The potential might of this nation is the strongest thing in this whole world. If necessary, we can raise and we can eventually equip an army of as many millions of men as we need. We can make more ingenious tools of war and we can operate them better than any nation in the world. That strength is always here in America. It cannot be defeated. I deny that the defense of the United States is dependent upon any other nation.

URGES CALM THINKING

Points to Cost to Nation of Going to War

"Right now we need calm thinking. We need reason. We need tolerance. We need to approach these problems with deliberation. Until this picture is more clear it is folly to gamble with the fate of a nation. Strong men do not need to rush. We must not be swept off our feet by the profound depth of our emotions. By no hasty or emotional act must we jeopardize the aid to Britain. And the future of America.

"Finally we must not forget the price we shall have to pay if we join in this war.

"It means the sacrifice of our most precious lives and the hopes of millions of mothers and wives. It means the sacrifice also of our own liberty to a dictatorship of our own, inevitable in total war.

"If we go into war, we must pass thru post-war bankruptcy. The savings of the people will be lost. The endowments of our universities, colleges, and hospitals will be destroyed. And when the day of transformation of war into peace comes, the government will not be able to support the unemployed and the farmers. In this gulf all major industry must be operated by the government.

"When we go to the peace table, hate will again as before sit at that table endeavoring to destroy the hope of any real peace among men. Liberty will not recover on this continent for a generation.

"But if despite all this price, we are compelled to act with our military power, let us be thoroly prepared. Let us make our determination within the frame of our constitution by the decision of congress. And when that decision is made, there will be no disunity in America."

Found Dead

PEGGY SHANNON.

Hollywood, Cal., May 11 (AP).—Peggy Shannon, 31 years old, screen actress and former Ziegfeld follies girl, was found dead in her home today.

Albert G. Roberts, 42, her husband, told police he and another studio worker returned from a fishing trip to find the actress' body in a kitchen chair, her head resting on a table. A cigaret was between her lips and an empty glass was nearby. Police said her death probably was from natural causes.

ALL POPULATION LOST BY 2 AREAS, CENSUS REVEALS

2 Other City Districts Gain More than 140 Per Cent.

Two districts of Chicago lost all their residents in the 10 years from 1930 to 1940, according to a survey of the city's population and housing issued yesterday by the census bureau. The population of two other districts increased more than 140 per cent in the same period. Meanwhile, there was little change in the population of the city as a whole, which rose from 3,376,438 to 3,396,808.

The districts which lost all their population are the one bounded by Chicago avenue, Lake street, Pulaski road, and the North Western railroad and that bounded by 45th and 47th streets, the Belt Line railroad, and Cicero avenue. The former had 116 residents in the 1930 census and the latter had 114.

454 Districts Show Gain.

For census purposes, the city is divided into 935 census tracts, the boundaries of 932 of which have remained unchanged since 1930. Of the 932, 454 gained in population, 466 lost, and 12 were unchanged.

Most of the tracts which gained 10 per cent or more in population are south of the center of the city near Lake Michigan, or in the northwest or southwest sections of the city. Nearly all those having decreases of 10 per cent or more are near the center of the city.

The greatest percentage gain was in the tracts bounded by Devon, Cicero, Bryn Mawr, Kostner, and Rogers avenues and the North Western railroad. There the population increased from 769 to 1,881, or 144.6 per cent. The adjoining tract to the west, bounded by Devon and Cicero avenues, the Chicago river and the Milwaukee railroad and including a triangular plot between the railroad and the city limits north of Devon avenue, gained 136.6 per cent, the population rising from 374 to 885. A triangular tract to the northwest, lying west of the same railroad and extending somewhat north of Touhy avenue, gained 143.7 per cent, its increase being from 423 to 1,031.

Other North Side Gains.

Other north side gains include:

Tract between Belmont and Damen avenues, Diversey parkway, Leavitt street, and the river, 2,726 to 4,314, or 58.3 per cent; tract between Diversey parkway, Fullerton, and Ashland avenues and the river, 3,411 to 4,738, or 38.9 per cent; tract bounded by North, Narragansett, and Harlem avenues and the Milwaukee railroad, 2,630 to 4,263, or 62.1 per cent.

South side gains include:

Tract bounded by State, 35th and 32d streets and Wabash avenue, 701 to 1,412, or 101.4 per cent; tract bounded by St. Lawrence and Cottage Grove avenues and 46th and 47th streets, 1,332 to 2,291, or 72 per cent; tract bounded by Central and Cicero avenues, Marquette road, and 75th street, 334 to 632, or 89.2 per cent; tract bounded by South Park Way, 59th street, Garfield boulevard, and Michigan avenue, 9,192 to 11,663, or 26.9 per cent.

Of the 989,562 dwelling units listed in the census, 37,758, or 3.8 per cent, were vacant and for sale or rent.

FUGITIVE TURNED OVER TO POLICE BY HIS MOTHER

Chicago Lawn police yesterday arrested Walter Frank, 17 years old, in his home at 6202 South Hermitage avenue, in connection with the theft April 22 of an automobile owned by Russell L. Poole, 1540 East 65th place. Frank, who police said was discharged from the army April 20 for a "mental disorder," was arrested April 24 by Indiana state police at Warsaw while driving the stolen car. He was later transferred to the Huntington, Ind., jail, from which he escaped Wednesday after slugging a guard. He arrived at his home Thursday. Yesterday his mother, Mrs. Stella Treinis, telephoned police to come and get her son, explaining that she believed it was "the best thing" to turn him over to the authorities.

Detective Edward Piggott said Frank was placed on probation for one year last Feb. 14 for tampering with an automobile.

11 PCT. OF ARMY'S INDUCTEES ARE IN 31-36 AGE GROUP

Eleven per cent of the 183,198 men inducted into the armed forces before March 1 were between 31 and 36 years old, national headquarters of the selective service system reported yesterday. Seventy-seven per cent were 18 to 27 years old. The 22 year old age group contributed 15.5 per cent of the total, the largest single age group. Twenty-three year olds contributed 14.1 per cent, and 24 year olds 11.4 per cent. Young men 18, 19, and 20 years old who chose to take their training now altho not yet subject to call constituted 3 per cent of all men inducted.

HER 'CHILDREN' MAKE IT A BIG DAY FOR MOTHER

Mothers thruout Chicago were honored formally and informally yesterday—Mother's day. Florists, telegraph offices, and confectionery shops did a thriving business, as did the stores in the general movement to remember mothers.

Numerous churches held special Mother's day services. Members of various clubs entertained their mothers at luncheons or dinners. Mrs. Audrie Nicholson, widowed mother of 10 children, was "queen mother" at a Loyal Order of Moose festival at 6650 North Central Park avenue.

JIMMY DOESN'T KNOW WHAT WAR IS, ASSERTS FISH

Legislator Rips Statement of President's Son.

Cleveland, O., May 11 (AP).—Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] told a meeting sponsored by the America First committee today that "the statement of Capt. James Roosevelt that we are in the war is untrue, and part of the defeatist program to involve us in war."

Declaring the President's son is "traveling around the world at the government's expense" telling the Chinese and the British at Basra and Cairo "to hold the lines until we send armed forces to help them," Fish asserted that "any other officer in the marine corps or in our armed forces would be reprimanded immediately or dismissed from the service for such an offense."

"Knows Nothing of War."

"The fact is that Capt. Roosevelt has not the faintest conception of what war is, and he and his brothers, all of whom, contrary to the spirit of the conscription law, are officers in our armed forces practically without training, know nothing of war," he said.

The congressman said "President Roosevelt committed a serious offense against his own code of free speech when he called Col. Lindbergh a 'copperhead,' which implies treasonable utterances."

Assails Stimson Speech.

A recent speech by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson he termed "nothing new" and "not a convoy speech; it was a war speech." Fish added: "The trouble with Mr. Stimson is that he is not satisfied to only have a war with Germany. He wants to go to war with Japan, Italy, and Germany, all at the same time, and probably, if he continues his present interventionist course, that stumble-bum diplomacy of his, he will also take on soviet Russia."

DRAFTEE HEALTH RECORD CALLED WORSE THAN IN '17

The health record of army draftees today is worse than that of draftees in the last war, according to Col. Leonard Rowntree, chief of the medical division of the national selective service headquarters. He expressed that opinion at the weekly round table broadcast at the University of Chicago yesterday.

"Between 40 and 45 per cent of the men examined are being rejected by local board doctors and army examiners," said Col. Rowntree. "This record is worse than in the last war and indicates a condition which should be cause for serious concern."

This record, he added, is partly the result of the more rigid standards set for army men. Other causes, he said, may be traced to the depression, with its resultant poor nutrition, and the automobile, which probably has softened the muscles of American youth. Col. Rowntree and other speakers on the program, Dr. Arthur C. Bachmeyer and Prof. Louis Wirth, agreed that the selective service program may lead to improved public health.

Save Our Republic

THE INVASION OF EUROPE.

Just a year ago the war in the west began with an invasion of the Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxembourg. Denmark had been occupied and Norway invaded a month before, but until the Nazi forces began rolling thru Belgium there was no prevision of what was about to happen to the forces of Great Britain and France which had been on a battle front since September, '39.

Lines which had been held four years in the other war to a final victory disappeared in just a little over a month. In 39 days France had capitulated and the British forces had made their escape from Dunkirk, losing their equipment. The shock of this tremendous blow and unexpected German success shook the world. It didn't shake British resolution, but the only thing that saved England from invasion by the German divisions was the channel.

Except for its sea power Britain was virtually defenseless. Its expeditionary force was back home but wholly disorganized and without material, and the home army was negligible if it had been required for use against such an invader rolling in by land.

With a courage equal to the emergency, the British have fought on altho their European allies have gone down. Hitler has not been able to cross the water with a land force. He has brought the entire continent under the control of his armed forces or his influence—but not the island. And now what is the situation? What are the facts regarding it and to what extent can they be ignored?

Hitler has an army estimated at 8 million men. It has equipment which no other army has been able to withstand. In every battle Hitler has had absolute control of the air, his armored and mechanized divisions have thrown metal which the opposing divisions could not withstand, he now has the resources of all the conquered countries, he has their factories, their shipyards, and their workmen.

If there are food difficulties in Europe or other problems of supply, they have not touched the effectiveness of the fighting forces. The German industrial plant has not been impaired. It has been reënforced by the plants of other countries. It is true that the condition of Europe under his dictate is volcanic. It is also probably true, as Mr. Stimson in his recent speech admitted, that such a phenomenon of ruthlessness, seemingly irresistible force and oppressive tyranny, is short-lived. That has been the history of other such phenomena, but this prospect is not now a present weakness in the Nazi rule and it is not now a present strength of the people who want to overthrow the dictatorship and regain their freedom.

It would be something very strange if a new order of any sort of permanence could be built upon such a foundation. Hitler's number is not yet up, but it will be, and such a prediction is not based merely upon hope. Meanwhile what is to happen?

One can feel rather certain in a long range view while being completely uncertain as to what will be involved in the interim.

Great Britain has an army, it is estimated, of between a million and a half and two million men. Mr. Churchill says that Gen. Wavell now has 500,000 in the Egyptian army. Great Britain still has control of the sea with a navy which has done everything that could be expected of it. The formula of sea power has not been proved false as yet, and Hitler, altho close to the British coast, is far from landing on British soil. That fact has its opposite face.

The problem of invasion he has been unable to solve because he can't get control of the sea, altho his army is vastly superior to that of his enemy, is presented to the people who say that the war can have no other outcome than his overthrow. To accomplish this they must get across the water and, with forces unequal to the task, find the battlefield and defeat greater armies.

The alternatives to this undertaking, which will be accepted as now impossible, are the blockade of the continent and the attack by air. In the latter the advantages again are all with the Nazis and hopes that air supremacy can be obtained over Germany are at present hardly worthy of being considered. Germany not only has the greater air force but it is capable of maintaining its lead for an indefinite time. It has a short range to its objectives and the British have a long range.

The blockade, according to Mr. Roosevelt and his cabinet officers, is now in a very doubtful battle. The British do not support this view nor do our own real naval experts, but it suits Mr. Roosevelt's purposes to present a desperate situation. The future of this struggle by Germany to cut Britain's life lines, by Britain to exhaust an entire continent, is at least a doubtful one in the long run. And it will be a long run. How many years it would take to defeat Germany with no other weapon than the blockade no one would care to estimate.

The people in this country who reject every idea except that of entering the war at once are faced with these facts. Their calculations must take them into account. Have they done so? If so, what is their program? How many American shock troops do they propose to train for the invasion of Europe and how long do they expect will be the period of preparation and accomplishment?

This is their problem. They must answer to the country for it. If they rule out every other possibility they must say how they expect to achieve their objective. That they haven't done. Possibly they think the country would not like to hear it.

THE TEACUP GLADIATOR TRIPS ON HIS SWORD.

We have in the Voice of the People today another communication from the vociferous Mr. Morrison, director of the Chicago Committee to Defend America. [The committee has evidently found the rest of its original title—"by Aiding the Allies"—embarrassing, for it has scratched it off its letterhead.]

Mr. Morrison is trying to put THE TRIBUNE in bed with Senator Claude Pepper, the spotted screamer of the Everglades. THE TRIBUNE, he says, attacked the senator for urging that the United States with Great Britain occupy Dakar in Africa, the Cape Verde Islands, and Singapore, whereas only 10 days before THE TRIBUNE had urged that the United States consider acquisition of the Cape Verdes and other Portuguese islands as advance bases.

Thus, Mr. Morrison gloats, THE TRIBUNE comes out for sending American armed forces overseas. He seems almost ready to welcome us as converts to the cream or lemon orgies of the palpitating interventionists, but draws back in mock alarm at the spectacle of our still supporting the American patriots who are fighting to keep American boys off European battlefields. THE TRIBUNE speaks in two voices, says Mr. Morrison. THE TRIBUNE is confused.

THE TRIBUNE isn't confused. Neither, we suspect, is Mr. Morrison.

If telling a small part of the truth can be called veracity, Mr. Morrison may be said to have cited his facts correctly. THE TRIBUNE did urge the desirability of acquiring bases in the Portuguese Islands. At the same time it pointed to the probable difficulty of defending them if we got them. We find since that such a well informed military critic as Hanson Baldwin is in substantial agreement with us, both on the desirability of the bases and the probable defense difficulties.

Senator Pepper also wants the United States to take the Cape Verdes. The senator, however, is merely taking off where THE TRIBUNE stopped. He wants to send our fleet into the Atlantic to hunt down German raiders; to send American bombers to devastate Tokio. He wants to land troops in Africa. He wants to send the fleet to Singapore, presumably on alternate week-ends when it is not operating in the Atlantic. He wants to go to war right now. On top of all this Senator Pepper is bawling for a purge of all those who do not agree with this conception of national defense.

The difference between THE TRIBUNE and Mr. Pepper is the difference between island outposts in the Atlantic and 4,000,000 American troops at Suez, Dakar, Lisbon, Brest, or wherever else they might hope to gain a foothold. It is the difference between prudent national defense and frantic, foredoomed war, the latter accompanied by Nazi government in the United States.

Any one who cannot see this difference is stupid. Mr. Morrison, however, cannot be exculpated on such light grounds. We think that, in his own elegant phrase, he is "befogging the issue with a cloud of emotional prejudice."

TOTAL WRECK OF A TOTAL STATE.

Mussolini's fascists tried to whip up some enthusiasm to celebrate the fifth anniversary of the founding of the new Roman empire, which, in spite of Herr Hitler's aid, is tumbling about their ears. The world never heard much from King Victor Emmanuel on the imperial dignity with which Mussolini invested him. He has been preoccupied with the affairs of his private and domestic life. If he lives into happier days there may be some revelations from him or other members of the family, altho possibly it's an episode in Italian history which the court will pass over in silence.

If the title to the throne is still held in Italy the possession of it has reverted to the Lion of Judah. It is more noteworthy to observe that Italian Fascism is the first one of the new despotisms to blow up. The only thing that holds the fascist system together is Herr Hitler's power, and that assistance itself destroys Mussolini's state. His Italy is merged into the new order with the status not even of a junior partner but of a satellite.

The amount of whoopee that Il Duce threw into the making of this empire was unstinted. It rolled out in words, it moved in parades, and for many years it fooled the better perceptions of other peoples, who allowed themselves to be bluffed into thinking that Mussolini had created a dynamic force which was all he said it was.

Now it is apparent that this imperial structure at no time was anything but a façade and a voice. The evaporation of its vainglory and the shattering of its legends do not at the present time bring the relief for which the Italian people must be praying now more than ever. When the dictator caved in the Nazis moved in. Nevertheless, there is a portent in the first collapse of a totalitarian state. Even Herr Hitler, tough as he is, might see something in it.

MIAMI RECOGNIZES THE BILL OF RIGHTS.

The Miami city council, thru the agency of a Paul Revere who rode up at the last minute with the casting vote, has removed its ban on the America First meeting in its city park. The counterfeit Hitler in the mayor's chair has discovered the Bill of Rights. Obviously he and the other little people in that publicity conscious community would not have ventured to interfere with free speech unless they had been encouraged to do so from high quarters. It may safely be left to the efficient Miami Chamber of Commerce to erase the stigma before the next tourist season opens.

BENITO GRABS A TINY TRICK.

[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

What a couple of real pals Benito and Adolf are is beautifully illustrated by the Nazi-Fascist footwork over Corfu. Greek authorities on the island knew they'd have to surrender to somebody. They did some fast thinking and decided there would be a better chance to get Corfu back from the Nazis than from the Fascists. A deputation hurried to the Greek mainland to work the thing out.

The outcome was a race between German and Italian representatives. The Italians landed first—just a few men—followed a little later by several battalions. When Nazi officials arrived to "take charge" they were blandly informed by their allies that they had the situation well in hand, so the Germans left.

They'll return if Hitler should happen to decide he wants Corfu. Mussolini is getting slim pickings from the axis partnership—just any little thing Der Fuehrer feels like giving him—and obviously realizes he'll have to step on the gas if he wants to get that.

MR. PEPYS GADS ABOUT.

12th May—To dinner the other night with a goodly company at the Cliff Dwellers club, which is atop Orchestra hall and has been there since 1907; yet whenever I mention it in talk somebody asks, "Where is the Cliff Dwellers?" Which goes to show that many people do not know their own town, or get about much. After dinner, went with the assembly to the art museum across the street, which was ours for the night, and we sat upon folding chairs that we carried from one room to another while Sir Daniel Rich, who is in charge there, talked about the French pictures, and how the styles had changed from this to that, and most interesting he was.

Did hear from Master Earl Reed, the architect, that the old Widow Clark house out on the south side, most ancient structure in Chicago, is to be sold for purposes that may ruin it as a relic. Did think it should be preserved as a little museum, recalling the times when wolves were shot on State street, and it would take but little money. Yet it is hard to raise funds these days for preserving things, altho easy for destroying things.

To the Tavern club on Saturday night to hear Rudolph Ganz play the piano for his friends, and nobly, too; and to the Auditorium last night to see the madcap show called "Hellzapoppin," a title that might fit anything you read in the newspapers now. So it would seem I have been gadding about like an idle fellow, yet everything I see is grist to my mill. People who find me gadding about often say, "When do you do your work?" and I answer, "I'm doing it now."

VISTAS OF MAY.

For lyric springtime we have waited long
Whose hearts as well as heads have felt the blast;
From sorrowing our lips had lost their song
Till April topped the hill and brought at last
The welcome news, which made our hearts beat fast—
The news that winter had been bound and slain,
That spring, and song, and joy were come to earth again.

And now that May, with her bright birds, is here,
All care shall be forgot; our path shall lead
Thru fields and orchards, where the waking year
Has set a feast of beauty for our need.
Our feet rejoice to press the freshening mead
As we again explore the land of dreams,
Of gay romance, by youthtime's clear and singing streams.

The north wind lurks no more; he journeys now
Beyond the hostile reaches of the sun,
Who, for our hearts' delight, trims bough on bough
With rose and snow. He yields in power to none,
That kingly orb of light: his race begun,
The fields shall laugh again, all tongues shall sing,
And heaven itself rejoice in earth's new blossoming.

A Bit of Lincoln Research.

The Revised Ordinances of the City of Springfield, Ill., published in 1921, contains a list of town and city officers from 1832 to 1921. In 1839, the name of Abraham Lincoln appears as elected to fill a vacancy on the board of trustees of the town of Springfield. His colleagues were Charles R. Matheny, Peleg C. Canedy, Philip C. Lathan, Joseph Klein, Samuel H. Treat, and Jonas Whitney. His name also appears in the list of town trustees for 1840, with Canedy, Klein, Whitney, Lathan as his fellow trustees.

Springfield was organized as a city in 1840, and the first election for city officers was held on April 20, 1840. Lincoln then retired.

PLANS FOR SUMMER.

Come summer, I think I shall sally forth daily
In candy-striped skirts that swish back and forth gaily,
With blouses of silk as chic as they're sheer,
To make you look twice, when you see me, my dear!

My curls shall be bound in a ribbon so trim
I'll be a bright flower on a stem that is slim.
My feet shall be shod in soft sandals of white
That I may run light on the breeze as a kite!

Of course, I'll be older than I was last summer—
Should this make a person like me any glummer?

With modesty I may say that I appeared under the management of the late theatrical manager, Daniel Frohman, who died recently. While a student at Hinshaw's school of drama I spent my Christmas vacation of 1901 as a "supe" at Powers' theater, where E. H. Sothern starred in Justin Huntly MacCarthy's play, "If I Were King," under Mr. Frohman's management.

For 50 cents per performance I portrayed a courtier in the train of Catherine de Vaucelles, played by Cecilia Loftus. With bated breath I watched the members of the company at close range on the stage and from the wings; I especially recall the marvelous performance of George W. Wilson as Louis XI.

My chores for the day were done with the fall of the curtain on the famous scene when Catherine addresses the king with the line:

"Sire, a man has come to France."

PEPTIC ULCER NO RESPECTER OF AGE.

ARE ulcers in the stomach or duodenum [peptic] limited to the young or to those in middle life? For the most part, we have thought of these lesions as appearing particularly in the 40-50 age group and we have pictured the typical victim as thin, nervous, apprehensive, snappy, and querulous.

Now, the fact of the matter is that between 6 and 7 per cent of all cases will be found in those who have passed their 60th birthday. This statement is significant because physicians commonly regard digestive disturbances in a man or woman of this age as an evil omen. Apparently this attitude is not justified because many examples of true dyspepsia [gastritis] arise in those who are elderly. Then, too, we recognize the rôle of the gall bladder and the havoc it may play in upsetting the intestinal machinery. To assert that a malignant growth is responsible for most episodes of indigestion in these more mature patients is stretching the truth.

Before deciding what is wrong it is always well to consider what has gone before. Did the individual exhibit typical manifestations in the fourth or fifth decade? This is important as, in many instances, the appearance of an ulcer is evidence of the return of a condition which brought about its formation at some earlier period. Then come careful X-ray studies and test meals, which are relatively simple procedures. They afford volumes of needed information.

Not long ago my attention was called to the history of an 82 year old attorney who had suffered a severe hemorrhage from the stomach. His relatives and friends remarked, "Poor chap! Of course he has cancer." But he didn't. Following a transfusion or two, and generous feedings on the Meulengracht diet plan, he made a quick recovery, and subsequent examinations with the gastroscope disclosed a simple, deep ulcer—entirely innocent of malignancy.

Probably more attention should be given to the menus of those in the older age brackets. With a little more care and understanding about diet, they will be saved much annoyance. But this does not mean that symptoms should be neglected. On the contrary, the characteristic pain which comes on two or three hours after meals, and which is relieved by eating, should be investigated. Furthermore, it should be recalled that what would probably be marked distress in a man of 30 may be but little more than discomfort in one of 70. This is particularly true in the region of the alimentary canal.

As we would expect, healing is less rapid in those who are advanced in years. In addition, the reserve of these sufferers is not as high as we would wish. Nevertheless, with adequate vitamins and with a properly adjusted food regimen, a high percentage will respond.

It should not be taken for granted that all bleeding from the intestinal tract will come from a peptic lesion. At the first sign of blood an immediate search for the source is in order. Occasionally a case is puzzling, because the nervous system [the weather vane of the body] may not be quite so sensitive as it was once upon a time. Thus we explain why a hemorrhage may occur without antecedent warning. But even such an alarming situation—more often than not—will be benefited by prompt treatment—including transfusions.

A DELAYED SENTENCE.

M. Y. writes: I was foreman of a jury and when it came time to give the verdict I said two of the five words and my mind went blank. A juror behind me tapped me on the back and the rest of the sentence popped out. I felt very foolish and wonder what caused this break?

REPLY.

Nothing to be alarmed about. You were on the spot and became momentarily overwhelmed with self-consciousness. The inability to speak, due to embarassment, is common. The condition vanishes completely with practice. This explains why lawyers are termed "mouthpieces."

CONSTIPATION.

T. R. writes: Even tho I eat prunes for breakfast and an apple at night, I am still bothered with constipation. I get plenty of exercise and eat a well balanced diet. What other measures would you suggest?

REPLY.

Have you tried drinking two or three glasses of warm water or weak tea flavored with lemon juice? This fluid should be taken at least one-half hour before breakfast. Another factor is the establishment of a habit time, preferably soon after breakfast.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet containing other suggestions.

EFFECT OF NERVOUSNESS.

M. S. writes: How does nervousness affect the blood stream?

REPLY.

In various ways—by constricting or dilating the skin capillaries, thus modifying the blood pressure; by increasing the rate of the heart beat; thru producing congestion within certain organs and anemia in others. For example, the abdominal area may be filled with blood while the brain lacks an adequate supply. This is one cause of fainting.

DIET FOR OLDER MAN.

M. J. writes: My father, 75 years old, does not care for anything but starchy foods—cereals, mashed potatoes, bread, etc. He is in good health for a man of his years and spends most of his time indoors. Is this plan harmful?

REPLY.

Not at all. He requires but very little protein [meat] because he is inactive.

STREAMLINED.

R. C. writes: Is it all right for a normally built man of middle age to wear a girdle for appearance's sake?

REPLY.

An abdominal belt is useful if the abdomen is pendulous. It serves to support the diaphragm and may thus aid breathing.

ALBUMIN DURING PREGNANCY.

A. R. writes: Is albumin in the urine during pregnancy caused by eating too many sweets?

REPLY.

No. It is usually the result of toxemia—poisoning from some source within the body. Your diet should be carefully prescribed by your physician.

LEGALITY OF MARRIAGE.

Lake Forest, Ill., May 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Do the facts stated below make a marriage illegal or otherwise?

1. If both people concerned were given a license and married in a state which does not require a blood test and their home state does?
2. If one of the party were not of age and without parents' consent?
3. Also if the wrong age is given when applying for license?
4. If party were issued a license and married in a town which required the girl to be a resident of the county, and not being such, the party gave false places of residence?
5. If marriage is not legal, does it require legal action to have it straightened out? L. W.

1. In general, a marrage valid where celebrated is valid everywhere, but this is subject to the qualification of parties under disability in their home state go to a foreign state and there celebrate a marriage prohibited and declared void in the home state and then returned such marriage will be void in the home state with respect to such states that have adopted the Uniform Evasions Act. This is somewhat complex. If you would state your acts we would be in a better position to give you an answer.
2. Most states do not declare such marriages void. See 1.
3. This ordinarily would subject the parties to prosecution, but would not make the marriage invalid.
4. We cannot determine the validity of the marriage without knowing what state law applies.
5. If the parties are not now under a disability, then presumably the celebration of another marriage would be enough.

PROPERTY TRANSFER.

Chicago, May 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Upon the decease of a widow owning [1] property, if there is no will, [2] does the transaction of transferring the property to the children have to go thru probate court?

3. In order for the property not to be probated, do the names of the children have to appear in the property papers? I. S.

1. We assume that you mean real estate.
2. Probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title.
3. No, in the sense that a joint tenancy between her and a nonrelative would avoid the necessity of probate, if that is all that is desired. We are not meaning to say that such an arrangement would be wise.

If the deed expressly provides for "joint tenancy," as distinguished from "tenancy in common," then on death of one of the tenants the title will go to the survivor without necessity for probate and to the exclusion of the heirs or devisees of the one who dies first [33 C. J. 908, 915]. The half that thus passes by survivorship is subject to inheritance tax.

If title is already in one of the parties, the creation of the joint tenancy involves an intermediate conveyance to a third party who will then reconvey to the intended joint tenants, using a joint tenancy form obtainable from a stationer. Make sure that the third party is not subject to judgment liens.

As to personal property, the Illinois statute says that the "will or other instrument in writing" must express "an intention [presumably that of the previous owner] to create a joint tenancy . . . with the right of survivorship." The mere fact that money is deposited to the account of "A and B" or of "A or B," or that A and B have joint access to a safety box containing bearer bonds, would not be enough. 3 C. J. 908, 915; 19 C. J. 473.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

AN "ALL-OUT" WAR VOICE.

Chicago, May 8.—In yesterday's TRIBUNE editorial, "The War Party Out on All Fronts," Senator Pepper of Florida is attacked for having urged that "the United States with Great Britain occupy Dakar in Africa, the Cape Verde islands, and Singapore."

On April 28 THE TRIBUNE published an editorial on "Portuguese Islands," in which the following statement occurs: "In that event any proper conception of the defense of the western hemisphere must take the Portuguese island possessions into account. If the United States really intends to defend South America it should take them." In this editorial the writer very correctly points out the strategic importance of the Azores, Madeira and Cape Verde island groups to the defense of the western hemisphere.

Apparently there are two "Voices of Michigan Avenue." One is that of a realistic student of naval and military strategy, who would send American armed forces overseas [If the Portuguese islands are not "overseas" just where are they?] if necessary to the defense of the Americas. This is a "voice" which any objective minded person can understand and often agree with.

But there is another "voice" which screams to high heaven—and not only on the editorial page—against the "war mongers who would send American boys overseas." Vide "Mr. Roosevelt Calls Them Traitors," the leading editorial on the day the "Portuguese Islands" appeared, and in which we read the following: "They [Mr. Lindbergh, Gen. Hammond, Gen. Wood, and others] are Americans who believe that the welfare, safety, and future not only of the United States, of which they are thinking first, but of the civilized world will be best served by keeping this war from American shores and sending no American armed forces to seek it abroad." This "voice" is the more appealing since it pulls all the emotional stops, innuendoes, and appeals to prejudice without the restrictions of intellectual honesty.

Which "voice" represents the editorial policy of THE TRIBUNE, that which advocates sending American forces overseas to occupy island bases or the one which, befogging the issue with a cloud of emotional prejudice, opposes such action?

Or is it possible that the editor of THE TRIBUNE has been so busy confusing others that he has finally succeeded in confusing himself?

JOHN A. MORRISON.
Director Chicago Committee to Defend America.

BEFUDDLED.

Elkhart, Ind., May 7.—This "Save Democracy" and the "King" business have me a bit befuddled. In Rumania King Carol flees with the crown funds. In Jugo-Slavia King Peter departs by plane. In Greece King George assures his people that he is always with them and sails off to Crete. In Norway King Haakon rules via England. Kings, kings, kings.

In England of 317 petty officers appointed 300 are from the nobility. In the United States of America Lawyer Doak [and others like him] takes down his shingle, kisses his chosen work by-by and lines up as a rookie to learn the proper use of bayonet, rifle, machine gun, etc., while the marrying Roosevelts move into swivel chairs and officerships.

Save Democracy? F. D. R. is right when he puts it as "saving our way of life" with the accent on "our." Maybe he means just that. H. E. WALTERS.

WANTS A DOCTOR AGAIN.

Seaton, Ill., May 6.—And again may this village solicit your aid in helping us find a doctor?

Some years ago thru your good paper we asked that a doctor be found for us. The response was quite overwhelming, and a young Jewish doctor established a practice here. This young physician, who was city raised, did very well and enjoyed a nice practice both here and in a neighboring town where he established an office.

Now this good young doctor has left us and gone to Monmouth, Ill., and has there established a practice.

Again we are without a doctor, and still we need one. This community will treat a good man kindly.

May we call to the attention of any doctor who might be interested in this village that it is a small-country town, and to be successful here a man must be able to content himself with small town life and a country practice. The community is mostly Protestant.

May we again thank THE TRIBUNE for past favors and assure you that your efforts on our part are well appreciated.

Chicago, May 8.—In behalf of the Swedish Covenant hospital I extend to THE TRIBUNE our thanks and appreciation for the beautiful lilacs delivered to the hospital today.

The flowers were beautiful and refreshing, valued highly by the patients as we distributed them to the various rooms.

"BEST COOKS IN THE WORLD."

Chicago, May 9.—For the benefit of L. D. DeWoody, who complained of southern food for northern soldiers, I wish to say the southern people have the reputation of being the best cooks in the world. If your northern soldiers are privileged to eat good southern cooking they certainly will not suffer. Evidently he has never served in the American army or he would be familiar with such common expressions as "grits," "treacle," and "side bacon." R. G.

[THE TRIBUNE acknowledges receipt of numerous other letters praising southern food and cooking.]

FEED THE CAT.

Chicago, May 8.—Replying to Elizabeth B. Yule. Here is a simpler and wiser way to protect birds or chickens from cats than merely tying a bell around the cat's neck.

First by experimenting find your cat's preferred raw meat. Give him all he will eat of this each time before letting him out of the house. No cat will bother birds unless he is meat hungry.

STRUGGLE TO PUT NEW LIFE INTO OLD ROAD SLABS

Hope to Save U. S. 66 Till Superhighway Is Ready.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Springfield, Ill., May 11.—Reinforced crews of state highway maintenance men tomorrow will launch an intensive effort to forestall total destruction of major sections of U. S. 66, the main route between Chicago and St. Louis. Under the pounding of the largest cross-state traffic volume in Illinois, the antiquated and inadequate slab has been disintegrating with increasing rapidity for several years.

Director Rosenfield.

Director of Public Works Walter A. Rosenfield ordered the "all out" drive with concrete mixers, tar buckets, and batch wagons of bituminous mix. It's for patches and repairs urgently needed to avoid closing this important motor arterial.

At the same time the director ordered surveys rushed on a superhighway planned for this cross-state route. For the entire distance, about 290 miles, the estimated total cost of 25 million dollars is too high for completion in Gov. Dwight Green's present term.

Early Breakdown Feared.

However, engineers reported to Rosenfield that sections of this superhighway must be undertaken soon or there is likely to be a breakdown on this main line of the state's motor transportation system. This report prompted the director's orders to speed surveys and to intensify maintenance efforts.

In the construction program contemplated for the next few years, a new slab two lanes wide is to be laid parallel with the old two lane slab for most of the mileage. The old concrete will carry traffic in both directions while the new is being built. Then the new section will carry traffic in both directions while the old one is replaced. Thereafter there will be two slabs, separated by a parkway, each carrying two lanes of vehicles in one direction only.

How much of this work is to be done each year will be determined by an engineering survey ordered by Gov. Green and covering all likely superhighway routes in Illinois. The relative urgency of the improvement requirements at various locations is being considered as a guide for priority in construction.

Immediate Start Needed.

The survey on U. S. 66 indicates that present volumes of traffic and their high accident rates warrant a four lane route for the entire distance from St. Louis to Chicago with the exception of 19 miles between intersections with Ill. 104 and Ill. 48, south of Springfield. The apparent short life expectancy of pavement at certain locations represents an immediate need for the new two lane slab, the first stage in the superhighway construction program.

Between Dwight and Pontiac, 19 miles, patches on patches are failing to hold together a 20 year old slab. About 150 men will be engaged this week in replacing sections of concrete to prolong the pavement's life until a parallel slab can be laid.

Between Chicago and Joliet, a 40 foot slab is producing a high accident toll, due in part to the lack of a separator between opposing traffic streams.

Detour to Be Abandoned.

A two lane detour via Plainfield to Gardner, avoiding Joliet, now bears the U. S. 66 shield, but it carries less than a fifth of the traffic volume on the Joliet road, and the dogleg is too long in mileage to be considered in the superhighway program.

The future location of U. S. 66 north from Gardner depends in a large measure upon unannounced federal road plans to serve the government munition works covering thousands of acres near Wilmington and traversed by the present U. S. 66 alternate route.

From Pontiac to Lincoln, the state has not yet started surveying for a wide right-of-way. A four lane bypass around Bloomington is to be completed this year at a cost of $1,300,000 and a by-pass of the same width is under construction around Lincoln.

Start Repairs

(Story in adjoining column.)

Route of U. S. highway 66 between Chicago and St. Louis, on which extensive repairs are to begin today.

1925 Slab Crumbling.

Most of the mileage from Joliet to Springfield—congested, narrow, and cracked—was laid from 1921 to 1924. It is 18 feet wide, compared with the present 22 foot standard for a two lane road, and its traffic volume exceeds United States bureau of public road standards as the maximum for convenience and safety.

South of Springfield, there is a congestion of recreational and commuter traffic for the few miles to Lake Springfield.

South of Litchfield, the heavy traffic is breaking up the 1925 slab. From near Mount Olive to south of Staunton there is eight miles of new 22 foot concrete opened to traffic last November. Thereafter, on the trip south, there are 16 miles of 1931 brick on an old concrete base that is failing, leaving ruts and loosening the brick.

Widow Writes Letter to Her Late Husband

"I have often thought of a letter I should like to write," says Mrs. M. B. of Dallas, Texas. "It would go like this . . ."

Dear: It will soon be commencement week, graduation from high school for our son. He is so terribly busy and happy. It doesn't seem possible that he is soon to be entering college, the last lap—then a man.

Remember how we laughed at ourselves for trying to decide a few hours after he was born where he would go to college? Our folks laughed, too, and as the years rolled on and we still believed in the things tomorrow would bring, they called us dreamers. Perhaps it was because tomorrow was so real to you that you finally let that young life insurance agent really talk to you. I wanted you to keep on saying no; we had so little money, and there were so many wonderful things to buy. But you said:

"Maybe we had better listen. This fellow is kind of convincing. He says he's more interested in what we may need tomorrow than in what we'd like today."

Well—this is tomorrow. Only I will watch him graduate . . . It is two years since pneumonia caught you at thirty-seven and left our world in turmoil.

It has been a hard two years, of adjustment, of cruel loneliness—but, thanks to your wisdom and foresight, there has not been added to it the fright of insecurity. The monthly income policy that the agent suggested sees us go on much as we always did.

We stayed in our home, our son graduates with his class, then goes on to college, goes to prepare for his tomorrows, just as you had planned . . .

Woman and Man Lose Lives in One Accident.

Seven persons were killed yesterday in automobile accidents in the Chicago area and two died of injuries suffered earlier in the week.

A man and a woman were killed and three others were injured in a collision at Harlem avenue and Forest Preserve drive in Norwood Park. Those killed were Leslie Adams, 29 years old, of Madison, Wis., driver of one of the cars, and Mrs. Hannah Hansen, 56, of 5402 Magnolia avenue.

Mrs. Hansen was a passenger in the other car, which was driven by Albert Mitchell, 58, of 1939 Irving Park road, a carpenter.

Two Killed in Collision.

James McElhaney, 38, of 7725 South Marshfield avenue, and Michael J. Kiss, 37, of 7515 South Honore street, were killed when their car collided with another machine at 76th street and Vincennes avenue.

McElhaney, a locomotive engineer, and Kiss, a locomotive fireman, had worked side by side for the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroad for the last 10 years. Carl Smith, colored, 6559 Eberhart avenue, driver of the other car, suffered minor injuries.

Mrs. Mary Marchese, 72, of 1034 Almond street, was killed and seven members of her family who were in the car were injured when their machine collided with another at the intersection of state routes 53 and 62, five miles south of Palatine.

Louis Gethner, 1706 Humboldt boulevard, driver of the other car, also was injured. His machine was pushed into a third car, owned by Ellis Hewes, 3751 North Lowell avenue, who had stopped at the crossing. He suffered minor injuries.

Taxi Driver Dies in Crash.

Melvin Goberville, 23, of 1308 North Hoyne avenue, a taxi driver, was killed by the car of a hit and run driver at Madison street and Kolmar avenue. Police later arrested Earl F. Welch, 27, of 2102 South 10th avenue, Maywood, a building contractor, as the driver, when he reported he had struck a man at the intersection.

Steve Suto, 24, of 1847 Clay street, Hammond, was killed when his motorcycle collided with the car of Charles R. Smith, 26, of 5353 Maywood street, Hammond, at State and Sibley streets in Hammond.

Barzynski will arrive Saturday from Washington, D. C., accompanied by William Lee, an interstate commerce commissioner, and Andrew Bassi of the Office of Production Management.

Two Gunmen Add Insult to a Ticklish $79 Injury

It wasn't the $14 and the $65 wrist watch that Frank Walker, 38 years old, 1208 North La Salle street, a bricklayer, had to give to two men yesterday that disturbed him. It was the way they tickled him in the ribs with revolvers all the way from Clark and Ohio streets to Elizabeth and Kinzie streets, where they took his automobile keys and left him, he told Chicago avenue police.

JAPAN ENLISTS SCHOOL CHILDREN IN BIG SPY HUNT

Empire-Wide Campaign to Continue a Week.

TOKIO, May 12, Monday (AP).—Bent upon making the public, even school children, more spy conscious, Japanese officials today entered upon high pressure observance of an empire-wide spy prevention week.

"The people are urged to refrain from comment on what their common sense considers should not be known by foreigners," said an official of the ministry of justice.

To stimulate anti-spy thought, posters of many types were pasted up thruout the country, postoffices used special anti-espionage slogans on their cancellation stamps, and the education ministry began instructing students in schools on how to become spy conscious.

Radio Pushing Drive.

Radio programs warned the people of the danger of spies. The government publication, the Weekly Graphic, will be devoted entirely to the campaign.

"With the international situation becoming more serious, activities of spies are becoming rampant. We must be prepared," said Seiichiro Iriye, police official of the home ministry.

Japs Strike in North China.

CHUNGKING, China, May 11 (AP).—Heavy fighting has broken out again in northern China, where the Japanese have thrown 10,000 troops into an offensive on the Honan-Hupeh border, Chinese reports said today.

West of the Peking-Hankow railway brisk battles were said to be in progress along an irregular 90 mile line.

It was said the Chinese retook one town after street fighting in which half the Japanese garrison was wiped out.

The Japanese, it was admitted, captured several towns in fighting on the Shansi-Honan border.

Bomb Burma Road Terminal.

KUNMING, China, May 11 (AP).—Six Japanese bombers today raided Kunming, Chinese terminal of the Burma road, and severely damaged business and residential areas near the "big southgate." A bank and office buildings received direct hits and the Kunming theater was damaged slightly. Casualties were few.

PYRE THRICE SET TO DESTROY BODY OF SLAIN WOMAN

Manchester, Mich., May 11 [Special].—At least three attempts were made by the slayer or an accomplice to conceal the murder of Miss Hazel Briggs of Detroit, who disappeared from the home of her mother, Mrs. Stella Briggs, here April 10, in the belief of Sheriff John L. Osborn and Prosecutor George Meter of Washtenah county.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Miss Briggs, 38 years old, was solved Friday when boys found her charred skeleton circled by two barrel hoops on a rubbish heap on the farm of Ray Trolz, a mile and a half from the Briggs home, where the victim and her Detroit employer, Miss Beatrice Beursh, 40, had been visiting.

Witnesses were found who told of having seen flames at the spot on three different nights, which indicated the slayer had rekindled the fire to complete destruction of the barrel in which the body had been carried to the rubbish heap. A man's figure was seen on one occasion silhouetted against the flames.

Yellow Takes Front Rank as Summer Color

BY REA SEEGER.

Summer color schemes that will be star specials day or evening are clear and strong. For instance, yellow. There isn't any subtle off shading of this tone. It is defiantly strong, clear yellow. You'll find it in stunning large hats to top cave-black summer street dresses. Gloves to match and even bags are plentiful. There are dozens and dozens of yellow coats, from the classic toppers that hang straight and slim to the fitted young looking reefers and the fitted and flared models for dress parade. Smooth flannel, soft wool, silk shantung, and linen are the materials.

There are yellow dinner and dancing dresses, either fluffily ruffled or clinging as if the stuff were plastered to your streamline. There are any number of sheer and not so sheer yellow blouses. These are gay notes for summer tailored and dress suits of navy, brown, or black. They go equally well with natural toned shantungs, with linen or Palm Beach as well as brown striped seersucker suits.

Bolts of cotton ready for the home sewing bees feature a wide and fascinating range of yellow finds. Piqués, organdies, dimities, voiles, dotted swiss, and the many novelty materials offer a splendid choice for every wardrobe purpose.

Some of the most effective bridesmaid dresses come in this sunny shade of yellow. The color contrast possibilities are limitless . . . green accessories, the right shade of mauve, both navy blue and star sapphire blue, all the varying shades of brown from molasses to copper, black, and the daring combines of scarlet, are some available ideas. If you are weary of the usual contrast tricks and of the usual basic colors round which accents of color are spiked, try your luck with yellow!

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

Like to S-T-R-E-T-C-H?

It's an ancient and honored method of keeping slender and supple, you know. It's what makes cats and panthers and lots of other beasts of the field sleek, relaxed, and lithe. Their muscles have that wonderful spring just because they stretch as instinctively as they breathe.

It was from a study of the cat kingdom that the new school of exercise for humans was developed. It's stretching, the simplest method in the world. And, to help you stretch and to provide the gentle resistance that makes the exercise even more effective, there's a remarkable little contraption that you can buy.

It looks a little like a jumping rope, but it's made of tough elastic and with it you do a wonderfully simple but completely efficient routine that stretches your lazy, limp muscles ever so painlessly. The nicest thing about stretching with this sturdy length of elastic is that it isn't hard work. It's fun, and it can and should be rhythmic.

In the box with the elastic "lithe line" you'll find a leaflet of perfectly swell exercises for the legs, the abdomen, the hips, the waistline, and the thighs. They're all the fluid, stretching motions—entirely unlike the physical jerks of bygone days.

You can do your stretching in bed, after your bath, or on the floor, and our guess is that you'll get so fond of your little elastic aid to stretches that you'll never be without one.

The stretching rope isn't expensive and it will hold its resiliency for a long, long time.

'Hellzapoppin' Fills Stately Auditorium with Hilarity

BY CECIL SMITH.

The historic, gilded Auditorium theater became the scene of unwonted levity and commotion last night. Dozens of blank cartridges went off with thunderous reports; smoking room humor took possession of the august stage; and the customers danced the boomps-a-daisy in the aisles with girls and boys from the chorus. Where Patti and Caruso used to sing, the three Murtah sisters intoned a ditty about mosquitoes and another one about balloons. The boards which a few months ago supported the airy figures of Danilova and Toumanova now took a few hard knocks as Grace and Nikko performed their rough burlesque of a ballroom routine.

Apart from the fact that nothing sounds really loud in the Auditorium when you still remember the fortissimos of Aroldo Lindi or Mostyn Thomas, "Hellzapoppin" turned out much as had been predicted. The members of audience roared in uninhibited fashion at its time honored vaudeville and burlesque humor and slapstick, taking portly Eddie House and active Eddie Garr well, no matter whether they were or were not being funny at any given moment. They sat respectfully thru the corny production numbers, waiting for something to happen, and they squealed and screamed with horror when they were drenched by a rain of alleged spiders.

In one regard "Hellzapoppin" is quite a work of genius. In planning its low antics, Olsen and Johnson, its inventors, hit upon the notion of abolishing the proscenium and curtain as artificial barriers between performers and audience. A great deal of "Hellzapoppin" takes place out in the theater itself—in the aisles and aisle seats and up in the boxes. The players take so many brash liberties with the patrons from the very start that a unique feeling of informal hilarity is achieved. The revue is like a riotous party which cannot, in the very nature of things, keep on its best level of hilarity all the time.

More than in the New York edition, it seemed to me, this touring version of "Hellzapoppin" interrupts its merriment with nondescript visual entertainment. Despite the excellent precision dancing of the Readinger twins, the ballets about mosquitoes and balloons seem like padding, and the first act finale, danced in kilts for the apparent purpose of advertising a particular brand of Scotch whisky, is decidedly on the wrong side of the fence.

"HELLZAPOPPIN."

Revue in two acts. Music by Sammy Fain. Lyrics by Charles Tobias. Book by Olsen and Johnson. Production staged by Edward Duryea Dowling. Dances arranged by Gae Foster and staged by Alice Sullivan. Costumes designed by Joan Personnette.

THE PLAYERS.

Billy House, Eddie Garr, Ben Dova, the Readinger twins, the Oxford boys, Grace and Nikko, the Murtah sisters, Paul Gordon, Billy Potter, Bobby Jarvis, and many others.

On the other hand, there are a good many diverting specialty acts. Ben Dova's acrobatic depiction of a drunk on a lamppost, which we had seen before in "The Streets of Paris," is a classic of perfect timing and neat characterization. The Oxford boys are a first rate wow with their vocal imitations of various popular swing bands. Paul Gordon performs some arresting feats on one and two wheels of a bicycle.

While I should not dream of denying that thousands of people will love "Hellzapoppin" and find it hysterically funny, I do find one fundamental mistake in its planning. It is thrown together with all the loose-jointed structure and the lack of pace that is typical of most night club entertainments. In the theater we are used to swift tempo and economical projection. There are places where "Hellzapoppin" drops badly and stays dropped for quite a while, and the attempt to project its particular form of wit out into the wide spaces of the Auditorium sometimes gives the comedy of Messrs. House and Garr a laboriousness it ordinarily would not have.

We have heard a great deal about the death of vaudeville. "Hellzapoppin" is the rebirth of vaudeville, a lovable and humanizing form of amusement despite all its banalities.

Meeting with Marge.

We met Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm in person for the first time Saturday, and a little later some hundreds of her public met her in person, too. The occasion was the luncheon Rose Oller, book department head, gave to her, in celebration of her new book, Take to the Hills, and the autographing party afterward. We found a dewy complexioned, violet eyed woman, slenderer than she is depicted in the Ronald Bean drawings that illustrate the book, but of comfortable size, wearing a dark blue suit, with pink carnations pinned to her lapel. A ready smile, a depth of understanding in the deep blue eyes illuminated a tale or two she told her listeners and book buyers.

There was the one about Aunt Mealie, who appears in the book: When Aunt Mealie heard Marge's book was out she came to call on Marge.

"Margit," she said, "I don't suppose you'd care about my seein' that book o' younr."

"O, but Aunt Mealie, I'd give you my very own copy," Marge assured her.

Aunt Mealie took the proffered copy, and looked thru it until she found the chapter about herself and her kidnaped dog, which she rescued with the aid of her gun. She read it slowly.

"Just as I heard," she said finally. "You got it all wrong."

"O, Aunt Mealie," said Marge, "tell me what's wrong."

"Well," said the old lady of the Ozarks, "you said here I pointed my rifle at them kidnapers, and it was my shotgun!"

One Person's Poetry.

Letter received by Poetry magazine, 232 East Erie street, with $1 contribution enclosed, from a person who read about the necessity for funds if Poetry is to keep its doors open:

Sir:

I can't write poetry, and don't care much about reading it, but I love the rhythm of a galloping horse, the roar of an outboard motor, the squeaking of new shoes, the rattle of pots and pans, and if a buck will help put 'em into words, here's a go. I, too, remember Deirdre.

Good Morning!

There aren't many things as sure as death and taxes, but one of them is, indubitably, the fact that a man can't play God and get away with it. . . . Not for long.

Tomorrow neighborhood theaters will start showing "Flight from Destiny," which is outstanding because it has something new and arresting in the way of a story.

The featured character [Thomas Mitchell] is a college professor who learns that he has only six more months to live. THAT'S not such a new situation. What IS new is his decision as to what it is his duty to do before he dies, the manner in which he carries out his plan and his reaction to a startling revelation made at a moment when he is most certain that he has acted rightly and as an immortal.

I don't need to tell you that Thomas Mitchell is a great actor, because that's what you've been telling me for ages and I knew it anyhow. His Prof. Todhunter will live in your memory quite as long as "Mr. Chips"—given such masterly presentation by Robert Donat.

Mr. Mitchell can convey so much without even quivering an eyebrow. I'm thinking specifically of a moment when, handcuffed to two guards, he stands at the top of a flight of steps leading down to the car which is to convey him to the penitentiary. He had expected to do something as he went down those steps, but, as you look at him you know he's NOT going to do it—and you know exactly WHY he isn't. And all without one cue from him.

He has magnificent support from everybody with the exception of Thurston Hall who overacts badly in his one short scene. . . . Direction was splendid and dialog—for the most part—is believable.

The film has the great asset of the unexpected. . . . It's gruesome, but it's good.

See you tomorrow.

Hungarian Artists Open Oak Park Show Tomorrow

The show of paintings and sculpture by the Kormendis will continue until the end of the week. Both are Hungarians who have exhibited in many galleries of Europe and who have recently had a show at Goodspeed hall at the University of Chicago.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., May 11.—Sunday—Arrive at San Francisco aboard the Lark, one of the country's most modern trains. It's good to be in Frisco again and feel life pulsing once more. And so out to the Napa valley, where Carole Lombard and Charles Laughton made "They Knew What They Wanted," and thru the Beringer Brothers winery, whose great limestone caves were dug by Chinese in the 1870s.

Monday—Encounter Robert Sisk in the St. Francis lobby, and for a walk around town with him. Sisk, who just resigned as a producer at RKO to take a post with Paramount, has fled north to escape telephone calls, to have a short holiday, and to visit Eugene O'Neill. . . . Then to see C. D. Jackson, United States forest service cartographer, who has the small job of mapping all of California and western Nevada, and he demonstrates the wonders of the stereoscopic aerial photography. . . . An afternoon tramping thru Chinatown, then cocktails at the Top of the Mark—a thrilling rendezvous whose view makes New York's Rainbow room seem unimportant. . . . Dinner at Pierre's, and to the train and back to Hollywood and work.

Tuesday—To Masonic hall, to watch Robert Alton rehearse a dance number for Fred Astaire's "You'll Never Get Rich." Alton, who staged the dances for "Panama Hattie," "Pal Joey" and other current Broadway hits, is doing his first big job for the movies. Says it's not much different from stage work. Chorus girls here are fine—and healthier than the New York crop. He's taking a couple back with him for a fall musical. Chorus girls' names run in cycles. Right now Donna seems to be the favorite name, with Jean running second. He has so many Donnas and Jeans working he has to invent nicknames to distinguish among them. . . . In the evening to catch up on Lubitsch's "That Uncertain Feeling," which is light-hearted, funny, and good.

Wednesday—To Universal to watch Abbott and Costello work in a navy comedy, to see the Dead End Kids swimming about in "Sea Raider," and to call on Frank Lloyd, who is making tests of Indian girls for Gil Gabriel's "I, James Lewis." Working with the young squaws is John Carroll, who is mighty uncomfortable in a trapper's outfit in 95 degree heat. . . . Lunch at Lakeside with Richard Macaulay, who is writing a Warner musical about South America, and Robert Buckner, who is doing the screen play of George M. Cohan's life.

Thursday—Dinner with the David Hempsteads—his next R. K. O. production will be an original by Ben Hecht—and to the opening of "Citizen Kane." The theater is jammed. It's the second time I've seen the picture and I want to see it two or three times more. All of those I talk with afterward think the film is wonderful—but the audience, being professional and numbering hundreds who have already seen "Kane," is only politely enthusiastic. Only person I have encountered who violently dislikes the Welles film is Paul Gallico, who is out here on an M. G. M. writing job—to confect an original for Mickey Rooney and Clark Gable. . . . Welles at the moment is stymied again. He has written a picture about Mexico, and has planned to produce it there with an all-Mexican cast headed by Dolores Del Rio—but the necessary governmental permission is being withheld.

Friday—Desk work, and picking up odds and ends. . . . Richard Carroll has finished his original screen play, "Three Girls About Town," and Columbia will start it rolling in mid-June with Joan Blondell and Virginia Bruce among the leads. . . . Johnny Weissmuller and a "Tarzan" troupe depart soon for Ocala, Fla., Florida now being California's favorite state for location shots. . . . Mickey Rooney has his golf game around 81 now.

Saturday—To Metro, but little is shooting. A number of pix start rolling in the next ten days, including "Panama Hattie," the new Garbo, "Smilin' Through," "Chocolate Soldier," and a new Maisie. Garbo, who has had her hair lightened and cut short, is to have a very elaborate Adrian wardrobe, with great emphasis on hats. Work starts as soon as her leading man, Melvyn Douglas, finishes "Our Wife" at Columbia.

A UNIQUE COLLECTION OF "CALIFORNIA ART FOR ART'S SAKE"

Today there's a renaissance of art in the golden west! Scores of Californians are creating chartreuse clay horses, shell pink shading into royal purple terra cotta bowls, earthenware vases the brilliant turquoise of a peacock's plumage and redwood roosters. And they're creating them simply for the joy of making some lasting form of beauty by hand. LOST LETTER.

Carol opened her eyes and looked at the table where she had put the letter Lily had given her from her father.

It wasn't there!

For one short second she stared at the table, then jumped up.

"The letter!" she cried. She looked at Lily. "Have you got it?"

Lily looked startled. "You put it on the table, Miss."

"But it's gone!" Carol cried. She looked in consternation at Maitland, who was staring goggle-eyed at the table.

"You left it there?" he asked blankly.

"Yes! And they took it!"

She ran for the door, threw it open and went out into the night. She couldn't see or hear anything. It was too late!

She came back in the house and said swiftly to Lily, "Do you know what was in it?"

"No, Miss," Lily said. "Mr. Coyle told me not to tell you anything or talk about myself. The letter would tell you all you should know."

Carol looked bleakly at Maitland. "O, Uncle Dan! What if Dad told where he was hiding?" She was near tears.

Maitland came over and took her in his arms, and Carol sobbed wildly on his chest. Maitland stroked her hair and said softly, "Don't look at the dark side so much, my dear. There, there."

It lacked an hour of dawn when McFee and Dave approached the spot where the sawmill road joined the Wagon Mound road. McFee was dog tired and sleepy and hungry and saddle stiff, and he wished Dave would stop that gentle off key whistling. During that day and night, they had scrapped with Wallace, delivered Lily Sholto at the home ranch, and then had ridden on here. More than anything else, McFee wanted a bed, some hot food, and some quiet. Dave Coyle seemed to want nothing.

"All right," Dave said, turning in the saddle. "You know 'O Susannah.' Ride up the road whistlin' it."

"Me?" McFee said, and added hastily, "O, no. I'm no good at foolin' anybody."

"Who said you had to?" Dave asked coldly.

"But if they see it's me and not the messenger, they'll hit for the brush!"

Dave said patiently, "When they stop you, tell them you want to ransom Sholto yourself and take him in to Sheriff Beal."

"But they'll want to know how I found out about this whistlin' business," McFee objected.

"Sure they will. They'll want to know so bad they'll take you to Usher so he can beat it out of you."

McFee didn't say anything for a moment. "What'll you do?"

"I'll follow you," Dave said, still patiently.

McFee said suddenly: "Coyle, I don't like this. We're walkin' into a bunch of killers. We can't hope to get out of there alive with Sholto."

Dave said jeeringly: "All right. Let's ride in to Wagon Mound and get a posse up.

McFee said stubbornly: "But this is suicide!"

Dave shifted faintly in his saddle, his arrogant gaze on McFee in the dark. "I dunno why I bother with you," he said softly. "I don't reckon I will any longer." He pulled his horse around, as if to ride away.

"Wait a minute," McFee said hastily. Dave stopped, watching him. McFee rubbed his face with the palm of his hand. "I'm tired," he said quietly.

"Sure you are," Dave jeered. "You got a price on your head by now, I reckon. Nobody'll let you rest. You eat on the run and sleep on your gun and you'll wear out a saddle before it's over. But it's what I been doing for years. Remember that the next time you raise the ante on me by $3,000."

McFee said wearily: "Quit it."

"You're yellow," Dave said calmly. "Take that bank account and that spread away from you and you're an ordinary old cow poke—only not so good."

McFee's chin came up. "You're a liar!"

"Then what are you waitin' for?" Dave countered.

McFee picked up the reins off the horn and looked thru the darkness at Dave, his eyes savage and harried and beaten.

"One more day," he said, "and then this will be over. I told Carol in that note I felt that we'd have Sholto into Yellow Jacket tonight." He smiled wickedly. "Just picture me tonight, Coyle. I'll sleep in a bed. I'll eat a good dinner. I'll have a cigar and a paper to read. And you—you'll be hidin' out in the brush, jumpin' every time a rat steps on a leaf. You'll be eatin' jerky and ridin' all day and wonderin' when somebody will cut down on you from the next ridge. And don't you worry. I'll have an extra $3,000 on your head, just to keep you movin'."

Dave smiled faintly. "It scares me to death. Are you goin' out there, or am I goin' to ride off?"

"I'll go," McFee jibed wearily. "I'm the one that takes all the risks, while you, the brave gunman, stays hid."

"That's right. Only when we get in the tight spot there at Usher's camp, remember who gets you out."

McFee didn't say anything, only pulled his horse out of the trees onto the road and vanished into the darkness. Dave slipped out of the saddle and tied his horse. He set out on foot now in the darkness, listening for the sound of McFee up ahead.

Presently, as McFee passed the sawmill road, he began to whistle. It was a thin, flat, woebegone whistle, but the tune was recognizable. Dave let him get a way ahead, and then he followed him, walking in the deep, noise muffling dust of the road.

Dave froze, listening.

"Bart," the sleepy voice called.

"It's Bruce McFee," McFee answered. "I want to buy Sholto back."

There was a long wait, and then a voice said sharply, "Stick 'em up, McFee. There's three of us here!"

"All right." At least McFee's voice didn't sound panicky, and Dave thought maybe the older man would carry it thru.

"Now what do you want?" a rough voice said.

"I told you. I want to pay Sholto's ransom and take him back to Beal, so I can get out from under this murder charge."

"Who told you to whistle that tune?"

"What does it matter?"

"Plenty, Mister. Where's your little playmate?"

"I shook him," McFee said drily. "No, not exactly that. He just rode off and let me get myself out of this jam the best way I could."

There was a long silence, and then a voice said, "You'll come with us."

There was a sound of horses approaching him, and Dave faded back into the timber, thinking the riders would turn off on the old mill road. But they passed the turn-off, and Dave was suddenly aware that they were coming toward him, heading up into the mountains above Wagon Mound. Remembering his horse across the road and the likelihood of it whickering when it smelled these horses, Dave crouched low in the road and ran across it and moved swiftly toward his horse. He reached it, clapped a hand over its nose, and then listened while the riders passed him.

So Will Usher wasn't hiding out close to here, then? Will was too smart and wary to risk holding Sholto close to these pickup men for Wallace to surround with his crew. If Dave knew him, Usher would be hidden many miles from here.

He squatted on the ground now, shivering a little in the coming dawn, wondering if McFee would be tough enough to hold out under Will Usher's questioning until he got there. Dave thought he would, because he had so much at stake. He rolled a cigaret, went out to the road, listened, heard nothing, then lighted his cigaret, held the lighted match low, squatted and studied the tracks in the road. The 20 minutes he had spent at the Bib M putting a double cleat on the shoe of McFee's horse had been worth it, for the print was plain enough for any one looking for it. McFee hadn't even known he did it, so there was no chance of his giving it away.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The good strawberry shortcake, in my opinion, is more fruit than biscuit, and its berries are partly crushed so that the red juice flows onto the dessert plate. The shortcake which sits on the plate neatly holding up its whole, unsquashed berries lacks the gustatory appeal of the one which is just beginning to soak up the bright strawberry liquid.

For a juicy shortcake cut the berries in half and let them stand with the sugar for half an hour or so. A part of them may be crushed to start the flow of juices, but since the dessert usually looks prettier if some of the berries retain an identifiable shape, it's better not to crush many.

I, for one, am partial to the old-fashioned kind of shortcake made with a rich baking powder biscuit dough. The sponge and angel cake slices covered with berries are not "shortcake," altho they are good desserts.

Strawberry Shortcake.

[Six or Eight Servings.]

2 cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup butter
¾ cup milk
Sweetened strawberries

Sift flour, sugar, salt, and baking powder together. Cut in the hard butter with a pastry blender, two knives, or the fingertips, until the mixture is in coarse lumps. Add milk and stir vigorously until the flour is all dampened. Turn dough out onto a floured board and knead lightly for half a minute. To knead, pat out the dough, fold it over, give it a quarter turn, and repeat the process. Pat out or roll with a rolling pin to about a third inch in thickness. Cut with biscuit cutter. Place two biscuits together, sandwich fashion, with butter between them. Bake on an ungreased baking sheet at 450 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes. Split biscuits apart and fill with sweetened, juicy strawberries. Top with more of the same. Accompany the dessert with cream.

The biscuit dough may be used for any number of shortcakelike fruit desserts. A good one is rhubarb "cobbler," made by rolling the biscuit dough into two squares of the same size, to fit the baking pan. Sweetened rhubarb sauce is spread over the first square, in the pan, and covered with the second piece of dough. More rhubarb sauce, dotted with butter, covers the top. The dessert goes into a 450 degree oven and comes out to be served warm with cream.

Blueberries are delicious prepared in the same way. So are fresh cherries.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

May 12, 1941.

Universal day—Highly exciting and stimulating. Keep calm.

Birth year—The last part of the life from about 55 on is said to be governed by the number which the year of birth gives. Those born in 1882, 1891, 1900, 1909, 1918 and 1927 have the number one as the expression of the latter part of their lives. This means they cannot sit back and look on but must take a very active part in the life around them, standing on their own feet and carrying on very often alone and without outside encouragement. They will need to forge ahead with new ideas instead of being content to follow in a rut. These are the people who sometimes practically have to begin life over again, making new starts and branching out into new paths after they have reached the 50 mark. A brand new life sometimes is opened up to them at this time. They seek unusual ways to express themselves and are often more independent in this last period of their life than they were previously.

Infant's Crocheted Cape

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This crocheted cape for infants is the type to give two years of service. For the newborn baby it is ideal as an all-over wrap. For the growing infant it affords complete protection against drafts and cool days. The mesh and shell pattern combine perfectly to create an unusual outfit. Pink satin ribbon is run thru the wide mesh, if desired, otherwise it may be worn plain.

For instructions in crocheting the baby's cape in shell pattern, No. 365, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is far wiser for the average player to defeat the opponents four or five tricks, even tho they are not vulnerable, than to commit himself to a slam contract that will require exceptional play. Today's hand is a case in point.

North, dealer.
North-South, vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	4 clubs	4 no trump*	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	5 no trump*	Pass
6 diamonds	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	7 clubs	7 hearts [final bid]

*Blackwood Convention.

East was content to let the opponents take a game, but when South went on to a small slam, he felt that a seven club bid probably would be a good sacrifice. South, however, had been toying with the idea of a grand slam all along and was in no mood to be talked out of it.

West opened his singleton club. Declarer won, drew trumps in one round, then cashed the diamond ace. He entered dummy with a trump to the ace and led the diamond queen, confident that East must have the king for all the bidding he had done. So fixed was this idea that, when East played low, South nonchalantly tossed his losing club on the trick, and he was not only grieved but shocked when West gleefully pounced with the diamond king.

Considering that East's seven club bid could have been defeated no fewer than six tricks, I am inclined to think that South should have accepted the sacrifice offer. Of course, the best result was to make the grand slam in hearts, but apparently South was not up to it. The winning play was clear-cut and not too difficult, as follows: South takes the first club trick, noting from West's lead of the deuce that East must have had eight clubs. The heart king is cashed and another card is accounted for in East's hand. Now the diamond ace is cashed, then a heart is led to dummy, and the diamond queen is led thru. When East does not cover with the king, however, South does not take it for granted that he is "holding out." There is no hurry about discarding the club. South should ruff, then reënter dummy with a heart, and lead the diamond jack. When East shows out on this trick, the truth becomes known and the future course clearly marked. East has been located with eight clubs, two diamonds, and one heart. He can have only two spades. West, then, is in the unfortunate position of having to guard the spade suit while retaining the diamond king, and when declarer runs every trump, he will find this impossible. Declarer reduces to two spades and one club. West must let go either a spade or the diamond king.

Husbands: Say "I Love You" More Readily

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

"We have been married for four years. I am as much in love with my husband as I was the day I married him, and I never hesitate to tell him so. However, he never expresses his love for me, and very seldom does he compliment me or act proud of me. When I ask him why he doesn't, he becomes irritable and says it is very silly for a man to tell a woman he loves her, as that is for the woman to tell the man.

"Of course, Miss Blake, I don't expect him to tell me constantly, but once in a while it would make me very happy, especially when I get that terribly 'low' feeling. It would be nice and helpful to hear those three little words, 'I love you,' from the man I love. Mrs. M."

Yes, Mrs. M., there's a heap of encouragement in those "three little words," as you yourself will testify! They would be all you needed to make you purr with contentment. Altho your husband is not a "cold one" in the true sense of the word, he certainly isn't the tender-hearted Romeo you married, is he? The pity of his failure to say those sweet little nothings your heart craves is that he does not realize how his attitude is affecting his own happiness.

As you've told him how you feel, and he has not changed his attitude, there doesn't seem to be much else you can do, except that if you want to try not expressing your feelings quite so often, do so. Tell him he really should tell you he loves you, and that it isn't the least bit silly at all. If it were, there wouldn't be so many people using the phrase!

SOX WIN IN NINTH, 2-1; CUBS WHIP REDS, 9-1

TRESH SCORES DECIDING RUN ON A FOUL FLY

Lyons Bests Bridges and Tigers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Ned Harris.

Altho wearing a Detroit Tiger uniform, a young man named Ned Harris served the White Sox in most capable fashion yesterday. Under the pressure of a ninth inning tie caused by some brilliant pitching between old Ted Lyons and the not so old Tommy Bridges, the rookie who took the place of Private Hank Greenberg made a brilliant catch of a foul ball. But the catch, despite its brilliance, permitted the winning run to score from third, giving the Sox the game, 2 to 1, and a sweep of the two game series.

Just to make the party more painful for the somewhat bewildered American league champions, one of their former associates arranged the setting for the boner by the rookie from Beaumont. Mike Tresh, acquired from Detroit by trade a few seasons ago, opened the ninth with a double over Harris' head. A bunt by Lyons moved Tresh to third and Billy Knickerbocker hoisted a foul to deep left. Harris raced across the grass, reached over the rolled tarpaulin to make his one handed catch and immediately was surprised to see Tresh scooting for the plate with the decisive run.

Bridges Has Hard Luck.

Harris' lapse, while his mates were waving to him not to make the catch, was the second bad break encountered by the 34 year old Bridges. He was somewhat wild and one or more Sox runners were on the bases in all except one inning. But Tommy was stingy with his hits. Until Tresh's two bagger he had yielded only four and none of these figured in the run by which the Sox knotted the score in the fifth. The tie was made possible by one of Frank Croucher's two errors after Bridges had walked a pair, the run counting later on an infield out.

The 40 year old Lyons, while fashioning his third 1941 success in four starts, was a master workman in all except a couple of spots. One of these was the third inning when the first of three successive hits spread woe among the 9,698 paid customers. It was an inside-the-park homer by the same Harris who became the ninth inning goat.

Lyons' only other tough spot was in the seventh when, after fanning both Croucher and Harris, he walked Pat Mullin and Rudy York. Ted got out of this mixup when Charley Gehringer, trying to grab something as a souvenir for his 38th birthday, lined to Joe Kuhel.

Wright "Fields" a Homer.

Harris' third inning homer, which gave the Tigers a lead for quite a stretch, could have been held to a double, but Taft Wright just didn't happen to figure the bouncing angles correctly. The ball started out on a course just inside the first base line and eventually curved over to carom off the concrete. Wright reached for the ball, but missed it and had to pursue it to the right field barrier. Harris meanwhile dashed around the bases and reached home with plenty to spare. Two were out when this took place and it was followed by singles from Barney McCosky and York, but Gehringer lined to Knickerbocker.

Bridges' woes late in the fifth inning probably were just compensation for what had taken place at the start of the inning. Bruce Campbell perpetrated sheer robbery by making a one handed catch of Lyons' booming drive into right center. Bridges then walked Knickerbocker and Luke Appling, and Croucher loaded the bases by fumbling a tantalizing roller off Kuhel's bat. Wright bounced one high in front of Bridges, who threw him out, but Knickerbocker scored the tying run.

A Theft and Wild Throw Can't Nettle Old Ted

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Pat Mullin, Detroit's rookie center fielder, stealing second base with a head first slide in the seventh inning of yesterday's game against the White Sox in Comiskey park. When the ball (arrow), skipped past Bill Knickerbocker, Mullin picked himself off the ground and took third, which is where he was when Pitcher Ted Lyons retired the side. The umpire is Bill Summers. Ted and the Sox won, 2 to 1.

DON'T FRET, NED—REMEMBER A GUY NAMED MERKLE

When Ned Harris, Detroit Tigers' rookie outfielder, realized he had caught Billy Knickerbocker's foul drive in the ninth inning of yesterday's game with the White Sox, he doubtless had much the same thoughts as the man who has just been told he has picked up the wrong overcoat in a restaurant.

In other words: "What AM I doing with this?"

When Harris caught the ball, it was a simple thing for Mike Tresh to dash from third with the run which beat the Tigers, 2 to 1.

Had the rookie made the same play in a world series game or in a deciding contest for a league championship, he would have become the modern Fred Merkle. It was Merkle, Giants' first baseman, who thoughtlessly helped the Cubs to a pennant in 1908.

Remember Back in '08?

Young Ned isn't listening, so here's a quick review of baseball's costliest player faux pas:

The Giants, Cubs and Pirates were battling for the pennant. It was Sept. 23 and the Cubs were playing the Giants in New York. The score was tied, 1 to 1, in the last of the ninth. Two Giants had been retired, Moose McCormick was on third and Merkle, then a 19 year old rookie, was on first.

Al Bridwell hit a single to center and McCormick scored. Merkle, assuming the game was over, dashed to the clubhouse instead of touching second base. Johnny Evers, Cub second baseman, called for the ball and touched second base for a force play. Umpire Hank O'Day called Merkle out. The crowd rushed on the field preventing a continuance of play and the game was ordered replayed at the finish of the season. The Giants and Cubs were tied when the championship campaign ended. The Cubs won the replay, 4 to 2, and went on to whip the Tigers, four games to one, in the world series.

Comorosky Does It, Too.

Thereafter a player was branded as "pulling a Merkle" when guilty of a daffy maneuver on the field. His boner apparently didn't bother Merkle, tho, as he still was in the major leagues 18 years later when he rounded out his big league service with the other New York team. He played with the Cubs in 1918, 1919, and 1920.

A play similar to the one made by Harris yesterday is blamed for ruining the promising career of Adam Comorosky, who came up to the Pirates several years ago.

Comorosky's hitting, fielding, and speed soon won him acclaim from Pittsburgh's fans. One day he gave stern chase to a towering foul fly. He made a spectacular catch—then too late he realized the winning run was scoring from third base. Poor Adam never was the same after that, and soon drifted out of the big leagues.

Every one's hoping, of course, that Harris' catch doesn't raise old Ned with him.

Bartell Reaches Trail's End; Draws Release from Detroit

Dick Bartell.

Dick Bartell, veteran shortstop who clambered back to stardom as the spark plug of Detroit's American league pennant winners last year, was given his unconditional release by the Tigers at the close of yesterday's game in Comiskey park.

Bartell left immediately for the airport to return to Detroit and gather up his belongings. The Tigers meanwhile moved east to play the Senators in Washington tomorrow.

Release of Bartell apparently meant the finish of a career that had extended 13 years thru the National and American leagues and saw the former Chicagoan participate in three world's series. He was waived out of the National league in the winter of 1939 after one indifferent season with the Cubs.

Joins Pirates in 1927.

Born in Chicago in 1907, Bartell was picked up by the Pittsburgh Pirates as a semi-pro from a Butte, Mont., team in 1927 and farmed out to Bridgeport, Conn. The next season he returned to spend three years with the Pirates, before being traded to Philadelphia in 1931 for Tommy Thevenow and Claude Willoughby. The Phils sent Bartell on to the Giants in 1935 for four players—John Pezzullo, John [Blondy] Ryan, Johnny Vergez, and George Watkins.

On Dec. 6, 1938, Bartell moved again, going from New York to Chicago with Gus Mancuso and Hank Leiber for Frank Demaree, Bill Jurges and Ken O'Dea. By this time his fielding had fallen off and his hitting left much to be desired. He batted only .238 in 105 games for the Cubs in 1939, driving in only 34 runs.

Teams Up with Gehringer.

On Dec. 6, 1939, the Cubs traded Dick to Detroit for Bill Rogell. Rogell was of little or no value to the Cubs, but Bartell, a fiery, money player, teamed up with the veteran Charley Gehringer in the Tigers' infield and helped lead Detroit to the American league pennant. Ironically, however, Dick was blamed by many for having cost Buck Newsom his third series victory and the Tigers the world's championship when he held the ball on a relay from the outfield in the final game against Cincinnati. Baseball men were divided on whether Bartell had erred in judgment on the play.

At the start of the present season, Frank Croucher took over the shortstop duties for Detroit, leaving Bartell a bench warmer until Manager Del Baker's announcement yesterday.

DODGERS DROP P. WANER

Philadelphia, Pa., May 11 (AP).—Outfielder Paul Waner was unconditionally released by the Brooklyn Dodgers today and Pitcher Van Lingle Mungo was removed from the playing list to await transfer to another team.

Waner was signed by Brooklyn after being released by Pittsburgh last winter and started the season as a Dodger regular, but was benched when his hitting fell off.

Sources close to the Dodger management speculated that Mungo, longtime Dodger hurler, would be sent to Montreal of the International league under option.

LANE TECH BOYS WIN A HANDICAP RACE ON LAGOON

The Lincoln Park Boat club's long summer campaign, which will be climaxed June 15 with the third annual Chicago Interscholastic regatta, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, got under way yesterday with a program of four informal races in the lagoon.

In the most exciting event, the crew from Lane Tech High school defeated the Lincoln Park Boat club eight by three lengths, after being given a handicap of that distance. The boys from Waller High school defeated the oarsmen from Schurz in another close race. The juniors from Lane won from Schurz juniors and the Lane varsity eight won by half a length over a four-oared shell manned by a crew from the boat club.

Jack Covington, member of the Lincoln Park Boat club, who had been named referee of the interscholastic regatta, which will be highlighted by a race between the national champion University of Washington Huskies and Wisconsin, yesterday was notified he has been called to service by the navy. He will report in Detroit Tuesday.

TRIBUNE SCHOOL GOLFERS TEE OFF TOMORROW NIGHT

Instructors Will Teach on Four Courses.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

If you happened to see that neighbor of yours—the one who never played golf in his life—swinging a broomstick or other implement out in his back yard yesterday, we hope you didn't think he had lost his mind. He was just another of the thousands of golf-minded Chicagoans who plan to enter THE TRIBUNE'S ninth annual free golf school, opening tomorrow night on the four courses of the Chicago Park district.

Many another citizen of our town was going thru the same shadow routine yesterday, preparing for his first free lesson in the world's largest system of group instruction. By the end of tomorrow night's initial class, the total of lessons given will be well on the way to 300,000. Up to and including last year's course, a total of 257,000 free instructions in the fundamentals of golf had been given to men, women, and children in the Chicago area. All-time high was the aggregate of 73,000 lessons given in 1939. Last year's total fell to 59,000, a remarkable figure in view of the fact that the 1940 school was conducted in the face of the worst weather conditions in the history of the school.

No Fee—It's Free.

The school's plan is the same as in other years. The faculty is composed of members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association. There is no fee for any of the four lessons. The teachers, as usual, will make every effort to reduce the grip, the stance, and the swing to their simplest forms. The only requisites for enrollment in the school are a willingness to learn the game, a golf club, and the student's prompt appearance at one of the four park district courses nearest to his or her home or work.

The locations of the four park district courses on which the lessons will be given simultaneously on each of the four nights are Jackson park, 63d street and Stony Island avenue; Columbus park, Jackson boulevard and Central avenue; Marquette park, Marquette road and Kedzie avenue, and Diversey, located in Lincoln park on Lake Michigan at the foot of Diversey boulevard.

Stresses Mental Attitude.

The dates of the lessons are tomorrow night, Thursday night, Tuesday night, May 20, and Thursday night, May 22. Each of the four lessons will begin promptly at 7 p. m. Every prospective student is requested to appear at the course nearest him about 15 minutes before that hour, in order to facilitate the opening of the class.

An innovation in the school this year will be the appearance of Alex Pendleton, the Gary, Ind., lawyer who recently has written a book on golf which approaches the problem of the game from another angle—that of the mental side. Mr. Pendleton has found that proper direction of the emotions and control of the nervous system are as important to the development of the swing as practice and a good grounding in the fundamentals of the game. He will speak briefly at each of the four courses: tomorrow night at Diversey, Thursday at Columbus, Tuesday, May 20, at Marquette, and Thursday, May 22, at Jackson.

Prizes for Best Pupils.

Following the conclusion of the final regular lesson on May 22, the professionals in charge of the classes and their associates will name the two men, two women, two boys, and two girls who have progressed most rapidly during the regular lessons. This judging will make for a final graduating class of 32 finalists, who will assemble on Sunday afternoon, May 25, at one of the four park courses, to be announced later. A special jury of professionals at this session will examine the swings of the finalists. The four pupils adjudged to have the best swings will be given golf bags and sets of clubs, each of the other 28 finalists will be awarded a dozen golf balls.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

Bishop B. J. Sheil.

IN the hectic years after the last world war, crime in Chicago began to take its toll of the city's youth, with the result that scores of young men found themselves within the gray walls of the old Cook county jail on Chicago's near north side. . . . A majority were transferred to penitentiaries and reformatories. . . . A minority never left the building alive. . . . Their last steps were thru death row to the gallows. . . . An eye witness to the imprisonment of many of these young men, the meting out of capital punishment to others, was the chaplain of the Cook county jail, a young priest stationed at nearby Holy Name cathedral on North State street. . . . He was the Rev. Bernard J. Sheil. . . . The fate of these unfortunte youths and the reason for it soon became the dominant problem in Father Sheil's mind and he wrestled with it constantly. . . . He eventually came to the conclusion that there are no born criminals. . . . He became convinced that boys and young men acquire criminal tendencies as a result of suppression of their natural wants and desires. . . . Environment, not heredity, was the original source of delinquency and crime. . . . How would he combat a situation which was natural enough in one of the world's greatest cities, a community of more than 3,500,000? . . . As a boy, Father Sheil was known as Benny Sheil in old St. Columbkille's parish on Chicago's congested west side. . . . He was regarded as one of the best all-around athletes in the neighborhood. . . . His love of sport was realized in a successful career at St. Viator college in Bourbonnais, Ill. . . . The climax of his athletic days was his pitching of a no hit game against Illinois, then champion of the Western conference, and losing it, 1 to 0, on a throw from the outfield over the catcher's head. . . .

However, the new game in which he found himself was not Benny Sheil against Illinois. . . . It required swifter pitching and young Father Sheil knew it all too well after his experiences as jail chaplain. . . . The most logical campaign to a man whose boyhood had been spent in normal, healthy activity was a recreational program which would interest not only the "good boys" but also those who might go bad. . . . That idea remained in Father Sheil's mind the next 10 years while he progressed thru a number of important posts in the world's greatest archdiocese until he finally became the senior auxiliary bishop. . . . He followed with remarkable interest the development of Golden Gloves and other youth activities. . . . Out of his observations and determination to aid underprivileged youth came in 1930 one of the most remarkable developments in modern life—the Catholic Youth Organization, which has been the inspiration for affiliated programs in more than 70 other dioceses thruout the United States. . . .

This week-end Chicago and the nation will pay tribute to a great American upon the completion of 10 years of service in the cause of youth. . . . There will be a banquet at the Stevens hotel Thursday night which will be attended by 1,500 men and women happy to have the opportunity to give Bishop Sheil some tangible expression of their appreciation of his efforts. . . . On Saturday night at the International Amphitheater thousands of young people will have their chance to share in the celebration. . . . Stars of stage and screen, some of whom are coming from Hollywood, will have a part in the festival. . . . The White House will send a representative to the dinner Thursday night. . . . Most significant, however, will be the presence at the speaker's table of Bishop Ernest Waldorf of the Methodist church, who was something of a ball player himself; Bishop Wallace Edmonds Conkling of the Episcopalian church, and Rabbi Louis L. Mann. . . . Only in America and quite likely only in Chicago, could such a gathering as you will see at the Stevens Thursday night take place.

Pray, America, Pray!

I wonder if we, who live in this land
Where peace and quiet reign,
Appreciate fully the God whose hand
Rules over hill and plain.

Do we take the time, in the rush of things,
To pause and humbly pray
That the joys which each of His favors brings
Will not be snatched away?

Do we ever thank Him for tranquil skies
From which no bombers dive,
Or for the freedom we all highly prize
Which He has kept alive?

I fear we take in a casual way,
As men are prone to do,
The blessings He lavishes day by day
On folks like me and you.

Has it ever occurred to you, perchance,
That blessings sometimes cease?
Let's take for example the case of France,
Broken and shorn of peace.

That she was as matter of fact as we
Is not for me to say,
But assuming she was, let's you and me
Lift up our eyes and pray;

Pray as our forefathers did years ago,
Pray as never before,
Pray that America never will know
The brutal hand of war!

PASSEAU HOLDS CHAMPIONS TO THREE SINGLES

Dallessandro Leads Attack.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., May 11.—Claude Passeau held the world champion Cincinnati Reds to three singles, all knocked in the sixth inning, as the Cubs made emphatic their first 1941 victory over the champs today, 9 to 1. Passeau thus became the first Cub pitcher to accomplish two successes this year, having won the season opener from the Pirates on April 15.

The Cubs made 12 hits, seven of them off Johnny Vander Meer, whom they knocked out in the fourth inning. They made five runs off Vander Meer, two while Elmer Riddle was pitching and two more against Johnny Hutchings.

Leading the attack was Dom Dallessandro. He had a double and two singles. The double figured in the production of the Cubs' first two runs and one of the singles drove in the eighth marker.

Novikoff Is Back.

Lou Novikoff, who was to be given a "long, long rest," according to Manager Wilson's announcement in Philadelphia the other day, was back in the lineup as the result of a punchy whim, which worked out all right. Lou got two singles and with a little luck might have had two more. He also played well defensively. Another multiple hit fellow was Clyde McCullough.

The Cubs hit opportunely and considered the 9 to 1 run ratio good enough, tho they could have doubled it, perhaps, but for a lingering of the whiffs. There were eight Cub strikeouts.

The Reds' Big Sixth.

Mike McCormick spoiled Passeau's no hit prospects by opening the sixth with a single to right. Bill Baker struck out for Riddle and, as he did so, Mike McCormick stole second. Lonnie Frey then singled to right to score Mike McCormick with the Reds' only run. Jimmy Ripple then singled, putting Frey on third. Frank McCormick flied to Novikoff for the third out. The only break in Passeau's devastating routine after the sixth was a pass to Mike McCormick at the start of the eighth.

The first two Cub runs came after two out in the third. Passeau fanned, Stan Hack walked and Lou Stringer fanned. Dallessandro smacked a double to left center, scoring Hack. Frey misjudged Leiber's pop fly for an error, Dallessandro scoring. Hank Leiber was out, Frey to Joost, when he tried to reach second on the misplay.

Now—The Big News!

And here's the way the Cubs sent Vander Meer away in the fourth inning:

Nicholson walked and reached second on Novikoff's infield out. McCullough singled again, scoring Nicholson. Myers, Passeau, and Hack then made it four singles in a row for the Cubs, the cluster being good for two more runs and causing Vander Meer to be displaced by Riddle. Stringer hit into a double play.

The Cubs touched up Riddle for a couple of runs in the sixth. Novikoff opened with a single to center and, after McCullough had been retired, Myers was hit by a pitched ball. The runners advanced on Passeau's sacrifice, whereupon Hack was given an intentional pass to load the bases. Stringer lined a single to center, scoring Novikoff and Myers. Frey threw out Dallessandro.

The run the Cubs made in the eighth was at the expense of Hutchings. After Myers had fanned again and Passeau had flied out, Hack and Stringer walked and Dallessandro came thru with his third hit, a single, scoring Hack.

A pass to Nicholson, an infield out, and errors by Pep Young and Dick West gave the Cubs their ninth and final run in the ninth.

DRAKE 2 MILE TEAM TO RACE IN LOS ANGELES

Faces Michigan; Indiana Possibility in Event.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Drake university's two mile relay team, which broke the seven year old record for this event in the games Drake annually sponsors, will compete May 24 in the Los Angeles Coliseum invitational relays. Indiana university's track stars, who seek the Western conference championship now held by Michigan in the meet in Minneapolis this week, accepted an invitation from Los Angeles earlier in the spring.

Indiana, Michigan, and Drake athletes plan to fly to the coast. The Hoosiers and Wolverines will leave late next week, but the Drake team and its coach, Bill Easton, will start either Thursday or Friday this week and will run in the west coast relays May 17. The trip serves as a reward for the boys who won the two mile relay races at Texas, Kansas, and on their own track.

May Run Against Indiana.

It is probable that Drake will run against Indiana in the Los Angeles two mile event since the Hoosiers took this title at the Pennsylvania relays and established a new record. Michigan definitely will enter the two mile relay. While Indiana's mark was 7:41, compared to Drake's time in Des Moines of 7:41.8, the difference merely indicates the calibre of the battle between the teams. Drake's champion team includes Harold Albee, captain of the track squad; Forrest Jamieson, Bob Barsalon, and Lowell Baal. Indiana's team at the Penn relays was Paul Kendall, Wayne Tolliver, Roy Cochran, and Campbell Kane.

Should these relay teams meet, the half mile anchor race between Baal, Warren Breidenbach of Michigan, and Kane should be one of the greatest of the year. It will compare to the finish of the two mile relay at Des Moines when Baal, with advantage of the lead, fought off the closing challenge of Breidenbach to win by a few inches.

Wolverines Gain Revenge.

Michigan's mile team, which won this event in the Butler and Illinois indoor relays and in the Big Ten indoor meet at Purdue, will be chosen from Al Thomas, Detroit; Bob Barnard, Winnetka, Ill.; Jack Leutritz, Saginaw, Mich.; Bob Ufer, Pittsburgh, and Breidenbach. Notre Dame whipped Michigan's mile team at the Drake relays but the Wolverines gained revenge a week ago last Saturday in the dual meet at Notre Dame.

Michigan's two mile team will be John Kautz, Chicago; Dave Matthews, Owosso, Mich., and Ufer and Breidenbach. This team won at the Millrose games in New York and in the Chicago relays.

Michigan's mile relay team is a prohibitive favorite to win this event in the Big Ten meet in Minneapolis this week. Minnesota, defending champion, has only George Franck and Bob Johnson from last year's team. Michigan ran a 3:18 race Saturday to whip Ohio State in the dual meet at Ann Arbor.

Kane May Lose Mile Title.

Breidenbach's development as a half miler—he has won the Big Ten quarter mile race for the last two years—is the key to the Wolverines' strength in the two mile relay. On the basis of Breidenbach's half mile last Saturday against Ohio State he is the favorite at Minnesota over Kane. Breidenbach's time Saturday was 1:52.4, only one-fifth of a second slower than the Western conference record established by Charles Beetham of Ohio State four years ago.

Kane may have a disappointing afternoon at Minneapolis for there is a possibility he may lose the mile, in which he is defending champion. Les Eisenhart of Ohio State ran the mile Saturday in 4:19.6.

State Street Softball League Opens Tonight

The State Street Softball league will open its season in Grant park tonight with five games. Carson's Retail, defending champion, meets the Boston store. Other games are: Republic Merchants association vs. Stevens; Carson's Wholesale vs. Goldblatts; Rothschilds vs. Marshall Field, and the Hub vs. Mandel Brothers.

SMILIN' JACK—VICE-PRESIDENT IN CHARGE OF BOSSES

Fans, Bettors Going Strong at Sportsman's

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The attendance and betting handle during the first two weeks of the Sportsman's Park meeting indicate that Chicago area race tracks are going into another big season. The average handle is nearly $20,000 a day higher than last year—$253,824 against $234,363. The daily patrons are filling the track to a comfortable capacity and the Saturday crowds are jamming it to the limit of its standing room. The wagering last Saturday soared to $407,989, which was the highest in years for that track.

As Sportsman's Park goes into the last week of its meeting today Lee Haskell is leading in the struggle for riding honors. With seven mounts Saturday, he brought in three winners, a second and a third, thereby running his total of first places to 16. Paul Kelley and Clarence Davison are leading among the trainers each having sent out six winners.

Lincoln Fields Gets Ready.

While Sportsman's Park is running thru the closing stages of its spring program, Lincoln Fields will be preparing to open a week from today. Executive Director Matt J. Winn has been in town since shortly after the Derby. Larry Bogenschutz will get things moving in the racing secretary's office today, pending the arrival of William H. Shelley. General Manager C. Bruce Head is expected to come up from Churchill Downs tomorrow. Track Superintendent Tom Young has had his crew working steadily on the running strip and on improvements around the grounds.

In the course of the week, shipments of horses will begin arriving. Trainer Jimmy Smith will bring up a division of Edward R. Bradley's Idle Hour farm stable. It was Smith who prepared Sirocco for his victory in last year's Arlington Classic. At that time he was training for Dixiana but he has since joined the Bradley staff. At one time he was a jockey for this stable.

Shot Put Will Be Back.

Mrs. Marie Evans has sent word that her distance star, Shot Put, will begin another Chicago campaign at Lincoln Fields this year. He is to be pointed for several of the stake races.

The stake schedule consists of six events, all carrying $5,000 in added money. One is for 2 year olds at five furlongs and the other five are for 3 year olds and up, ranging in distance from the Crete handicap at six furlongs to the Lincoln handicap at a mile and a quarter. There will be a stake on each Saturday of the meeting and also on Memorial day.

NATIONAL OPEN SOCCER CROWN TO PAWTUCKET

Detroit, Mich., May 11 (AP).—The Pawtucket Rangers scored three times in an overtime period today to defeat the Detroit Chryslers, 4 to 3, and win the national open soccer cup on a total goal count of 8 to 5.

Detroit, which had dropped the first game of the series, 4 to 2, in Pawtucket, built up an early 3 to 0 lead in today's battle on first and second period goals by Neil Campbell, John Lenard, and Tony Barra. With 25 seconds to play, Ed Valentine, Rangers' center forward, kicked the point which gave the easterners a 5 to 5 total goal tie and sent the game into a 30 minute overtime. In the extra period Dan McEwen scored twice and Tom Florie once.

Pros, Amateurs to Play Today at Shoreacres

Members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association, which tomorrow night will resume duties as professors in THE TRIBUNE'S ninth annual free golf school, this afternoon will enjoy a bit of relaxation on their own, when they gather with members of the exclusive Shoreacres club in Lake Bluff for the first pro-amateur tournament of the season. It will be the first time the pros have been able to play Shoreacres in a competitive test. Officials have put up a substantial purse for the winning team. The pros will be guests of the club for luncheon and there will be no entry fees.

Eddie Gayer of Twin Orchard, tournament chairman of the section, also announces an unusual event for next Sunday afternoon at Mohawk Country club. Members of the section will gather with Mohawk's amateurs in a tournament, all proceeds of which will be turned over to Terry McGovern, who has been forced by an illness of nearly a year to relinquish his post as professional at Deerpath. The pros will waive all cash prizes.

The Ridgemoor Country club will hold its annual Jabberwalk day on June 11, with the opening spring formal party of the season set for May 24. Ridgemoor also will be the scene of the Chicago District Golf association's first one day handicap event on June 6.

Entry blanks for the 11th annual Illinois State tournament of the CDGA, to be held June 11-14 at the Quincy, Ill., Country club, are now being widely circulated by Tournament Chairman Ted Quinn of Riverside and his committee. Entries are due to close June 6. Blanks may be had at the CDGA headquarters, room 1806, La Salle hotel. The event has grown into one of the outstanding state tourneys of the country.

Prizes for 275 contestants have been assured for the annual golf tournament of the Chicago Association of Commerce at Medinah on June 19.

CARLSON BOWLS 299 GAME IN DETROIT MEET

Detroit, Mich., May 11 [Special].—Vincent Mikiel, 30 year old Detroiter, tonight was awarded the first prize of $2,000 in the 26th annual Petersen bowling classic. Mikiel rolled his 1791 total for the eight games Thursday.

In the only changes among the top 10 today, Cone Hermann of St. Louis moved into a tie for third place with 1765, and Heinie Mead of Columbus rolled 1748 for fifth.

Chicago bowlers led Saturday's competitors. Finishing in the wee hours of the morning, Joe Bishop of Chicago totaled 1,729. Leo Fnetz, veteran Chicago tournament bowler, had 1701. Adam Plunge, another Chicagoan, had 1706.

Top honors, however, went to Adolph [Swede] Carlson of Chicago, who got 299 on his sixth game. Carlson sent in 11 straight strikes, but his twelfth ball hit a trifle high and left the No. 4 pin.

Glen Gersch, 17 year old Chicago high school boy, competing in the second tournament of his career, rolled 1689.

Among the stars who failed to disturb leaders were Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., 1482; Lowell Jackson of St. Louis, who withdrew after bowling 1206 in his first seven games; Sam Garofalo and Otto Stein of St. Louis with 1484 and 1479, and Eddie Zajac of Chicago with 1624.

The final 10 leaders:

Vincent Mikiel, Detroit, 1791; James McMahon, Lodi, N. J., 1784; Fred Bujack, Benton Harbor, 1765; Cone Hermann, St. Louis, 1765; Joe Falcaro, New York, 1760; Heinie Mead, Columbus, 1748; Johnny Crimmins, Detroit, 1735; Jack Bishop, Chicago, 1729; Bernard Belk, Detroit, 1715; Walter Johnson, Toledo, 1711.

DODGERS' 5 HITS IN FOURTH BEAT PHILLIES, 6 TO 5

Higbe Wins Over Former Mates, but Has Trouble.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 11 (AP).—Walter Kirby Higbe, the fast ball righthander the Phillies sold for $100,000 last winter, returned to Shibe park today and pitched the first place Brooklyn Dodgers to a 6 to 5 victory over his former teammates.

One big inning—the fourth—in which the Dodgers scored all their runs on five hits, including a homer, and a base on balls, gave Higbe a comfortable working margin.

The Phils, paced by Nick Etten's homer and double, made only six hits to Brooklyn's 15, but continually had Higbe in trouble in the closing innings. Score:

GIANTS, 8; BRAVES, 3.

New York, May 11 (AP).—Grand relief pitching by Southpaw Cliff Melton and a timely triple by Billy Jurges brought the Giants the odd game of a three game series with the Boston Braves today, 8 to 3.

Bob Bowman gave up all Boston's runs in the opening inning.

Three runs down, the Giants went to work with a vengeance in the last of the second. They filled the bases against Dick Errickson, and it was in this appropriate setting that Jurges cleared them with his triple. Frank Lamanna replaced Errickson and, with the bases full again, hit Burgess Whitehead to force in the deciding run. Score:

Boston, Mass., May 11 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox knocked the Yankees out of second place in the American league and took it themselves as they pounded four New York pitchers for 17 hits for 26 bases and a 13 to 5 victory today before an overflow crowd of 34,000. More than 5,000 others were turned away long before game time.

While winning their first victory in three starts against the Yanks, every player except Bobby Doerr hit safely. The latter, however, sparkled afield, for he handled 11 chances, several of them extremely difficult, in flawless fashion. Score:

ATHLETICS, 10; SENATORS, 8.

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics won a 10 inning battle from the Senators today, 10 to 8, to make it two straight over Washington.

Buddy Lewis was the hero and the goat of the game. He put the Senators within winning distance with a triple in the ninth inning, scoring two runs, and then scored the tying run himself. But in the 10th he booted Dean's easy roller, allowing Sam Chapman to score the winning run.

In the fourth inning, 12 Athletics came to bat, collected eight hits and scored seven runs. Score:

White Sox Invade East; Rigney to Open in Boston

The White Sox left early last evening for Boston where they open a two game series with the Red Sox tomorrow. Manager Jim Dykes has discarded his plan to open with Bill Dietrich. Instead, John Rigney will pitch tomorrow and Dietrich on Wednesday. This adjustment will give Rigney time to rest properly for the final of the Yankee series on Saturday.

Last Thursday's postponement between the Sox and Boston will be played off as a double header Sunday, June 8. There also will be a twin bill with Washington on June 1. Tickets for these attractions as well as the May 30 double header with Cleveland and the night game with the Athletics on June 4, will be placed on sale Friday.

Barney McCosky, the Tiger center fielder, was forced out of action by a freak mishap in the third inning yesterday. While running to second he pulled a side muscle and the pain was so severe that some of his mates had to carry him to the clubhouse.

Ernie Stewart, the freshman umpire, tried to wish an error on Joe Kuhel in the second inning. Kuhel took a throw from Dario Lodigiani to retire Bruce Campbell, but as he started to toss the ball to Lyons, Kuhel let it slip from his hand, whereupon Stewart ruled Campbell safe. Umpire Bill Summers was consulted and reversed the decision.

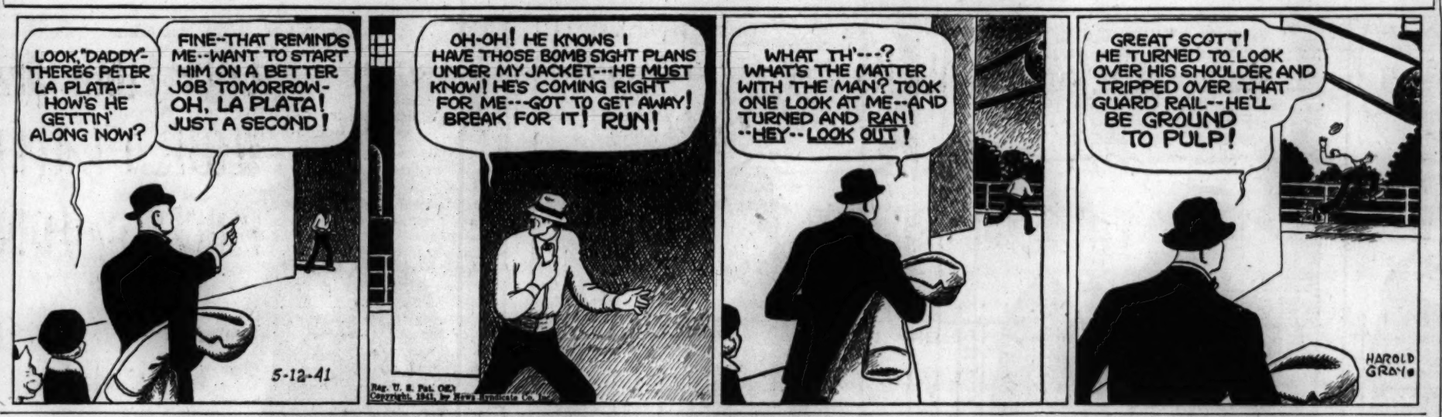
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Run, Sheep, Run



WOMAN WRITER AND OILMAN SHOT TO DEATH IN AUTO

Murder and Suicide, Coroner Says.

Cleveland, O., May 11 [Special].—Miss Josephine Scott, 25 years old, assistant club editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and William Haltenberger Jr., 30, a special student at the University of Tulsa, in Tulsa, Okla., were found shot to death late today in an automobile parked near the Chagrin river road in suburban Moreland Hills.

Coroner Samuel R. Gerber said it was a case of murder and suicide, but could offer no motive. The coroner said Haltenberger evidently had shot Miss Scott and himself. A new revolver was found in the car. Miss Scott had known Haltenberger since about 1935, when both were students at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. Her father, Dr. Roy Scott, chief of medicine at Cleveland's city hospital, said the couple had corresponded for several years, but that they were not engaged.

Letter from Haltenberger.

In Miss Scott's purse police found a letter from Haltenberger in which he told her he was coming to Cleveland. "You will not regret seeing me this time," the letter stated.

Coroner Gerber learned that Haltenberger was to have gone to work next week for an Ashland, Ky., oil refinery. He drove to Cleveland Friday, and on Saturday night he and Miss Scott attended a musical at a fashionable girls' school in suburban Shaker Heights. They were not seen after they left the musical until their bodies were discovered in the automobile.

In Draft in Michigan.

Haltenberger came to the United States from Budapest, Hungary, in 1935. He obtained final citizenship papers last Feb. 5. On May 8 he was to have reported to his local draft board in Ann Arbor, but whether he had done so was not learned immediately. He had obtained four degrees at Ann Arbor—civil engineering, chemical engineering, bachelor of science, and master of science.

Miss Scott attended the Columbia university school of journalism after leaving the University of Michigan. She began work for the Plain Dealer last September.

Haltenberger had been married, but was divorced in Michigan in 1938, his wife charging him with "gross neglect and mental cruelty."

ENOCK RUNS INTO BUMPER CROP OF BUMPER TROUBLE

When Enock Thorsen, 43 years old, of 3016 North avenue, entered his automobile parked near Spaulding and North avenues early today and drove away, he became suspicious of another automobile which was following him closely. In front of a garage at 3022 North avenue he stopped to investigate and found a car hooked onto his rear bumper. A garage attendant helped him unhook the cars and he drove on.

Looking back, Thorsen saw police arrive at the scene. He returned to see what was happening, and discovered that Kenneth Thon, 6, of 3440 Melrose street, had been sleeping on the rear seat of the other auto.

Meanwhile Stanley Wilk, 52, a boarder at 3405 Le Moyne street, and Mrs. Claire Lamoureaux, his landlady and the sister-in-law of Kenneth's father, Walter, had reported Kenneth and the car missing. Kenneth was restored to his father. Thorsen, according to Policemen John Connell and Joseph Mocny of the North avenue station, was to be charged with reckless driving.

ILLINOIS SOLDIER IS KILLED BY MEXICO POLICE

San Diego, Cal., May 11 (AP).—Roscoe K. Davis, Camp Callan corporal from Mason City, Ill., was shot and killed by a Tijuana special officer today while celebrating his 25th birthday across the international line. Juan Mora, 34 years old, the special officer, said the shooting was accidental. Mora was held in Tijuana pending a hearing.

Gerald A. Mokma, American consul at Tijuana, reported that the slain man and two soldier companions had been at a drinking place:

"As the soldiers got in their car to leave a policeman told one of them he should not drive," Mokma said. "However, he took the wheel and they drove away. The officer fired shots in the air. Then he was joined by the Tijuana officer and they pursued the soldiers. The officers caught up with the men when they stopped to replace the driver with another one more sober. The policeman said his gun went off accidentally and Corporal Davis was shot."

Corporal Davis enlisted at Pittsburgh, Pa., and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Jodie Davis of Mason City, Ill.

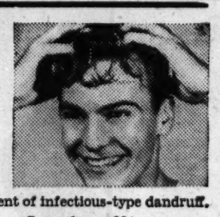
Infectious Dandruff 76% IMPROVED in clinical test



Such a delightful, easy, stimulating treatment! Just douse Listerine Antiseptic on the scalp, morning and night, and follow with vigorous and persistent massage.

Listerine, the same germicide which has been famous for more than 50 years as an antiseptic gargle, kills millions of germs on scalp and hair, including Pityrosporum Ovale recognized by outstanding specialists as a causative agent of infectious-type dandruff.

This germ-killing action, we believe, helps to explain why, in a clinical test, 76% of dandruff sufferers—7 out of every 10! showed either complete disappearance of or marked improvement in the symptoms of dandruff within a month.

U. S. COURT CLERK QUITS; INVOLVED IN RCA CASE QUIZ

Wilmington, Del., May 11 [Special].—At the request of Judge John P. Nields of the United States district court of Delaware, Harry C. Mahaffy Jr. of Wilmington, has resigned as clerk of the court. He has held the position for nearly 10 years.

No amplification of his judicial act was given by Judge Nields today, except that the original suggestion for the resignation had been made to him by a friend of Mahaffy's.

Last August Mahaffy was called before a senate committee investigating the strange circumstances surrounding the continuance in federal court of an antitrust case against the Radio Corporation of America. It was charged that Mahaffy received $15,000 from the court for his alleged influence in having the case continued.

Mahaffy denied he had aided the court in preparing opinions. He said he had only "consulted" with the court.

A congressional resolution calling for investigation of "the administration of justice in" the United States district of Delaware was introduced last Friday in Washington by Representative Kefauver [D., Tenn.], a member of the house judiciary committee.

FIND 3D VICTIM OF EX-CONVICT KILLED IN WEST

San Bernardino, Cal., May 11 (AP).—Raymond Wells, 24, whose stepbrother is being sought thruout the west in the slaying of two women—one of them his sister-in-law—was found shot to death today in Cajon pass north of here.

Wells' wife, Jean, 20, was slain, and her friend, Miss Rose Destree, 17, fatally wounded Thursday night. Wells had been missing since his stepbrother, Alfred Wells, 30 year old crippled ex-convict, called for him at work the same night.

The body of Raymond Wells was found less than a mile from the spot where his wife and Miss Destree were shot.

Miss Destree in a statement before she died related that she and Mrs. Wells were lured into the sparsely inhabited Cajon pass area on the plea that the ex-convict wished to be driven to a job on a ranch.

He drew a gun, forced Mrs. Wells to write her husband a note, then shot her three times while he held her year old baby in his arms. He turned the gun on Miss Destree, then put the infant back on her mother's bleeding breast and fled.

23 PLANES JOIN HUNT FOR NEW YORK COUPLE AND MISSING AIRSHIP

Bellefonte, Pa., May 11 (AP).—Three planes from the Bellefonte airport joined 20 privately owned ships today in a search of heavily wooded nearby mountains for traces of the missing plane of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Brewster, socially prominent New Yorkers. Whitney Stone of New York, Brewster's brother-in-law, has offered a $1,000 reward for the finding of the plane.

Spurred by a report of C. H. Shaffer of near Madisonburg, about 20 miles from Bellefonte, that he heard the motor go dead on a low flying plane Friday evening, the private pilots began an intensive air patrol of the area. Part of the section is known as the "graveyard of the Alleghenies" because of the many plane crashes.

The Brewsters, en route from Roosevelt field, New York, to Warren, O., left Friday. Four hours later Shaffer reported the motor incident. State police were ordered by teletype to be on the lookout for traces of the Brewster plane, and to report any information.

SET THURSDAY DEADLINE FOR BIG AUTO STRIKE

Continue Parleys on Settlement.

Detroit, Mich., May 11 (AP).—The United Automobile Workers [CIO] will go on strike at 7 a. m. Thursday at 60 General Motors corporation plants thruout the nation unless an agreement on new contract demands is reached before that time between the union and management in renewed conferences at Washington, union officers announced today.

Decision to call the strike was reached at a meeting today of the union's General Motors council, which heard reports from its negotiating committee on efforts of a national defense mediation board panel to settle the dispute at conferences last week in Washington.

More Parleys Scheduled.

At additional Washington conferences Tuesday and Wednesday the defense board panel will seek anew a settlement of the union's demands for wage increases, union shop recognition, improved grievance machinery, and extension of powers of the labor umpire authorized in the existing contract between the UAW and General Motors.

The union is asking a wage increase of 10 cents an hour. General Motors executives, who said they had offered a basic 2 cent wage increase and boosts of 3 to 5 cents for some skilled workers, declare the corporation's hourly pay to car and body plant workers now averages slightly more than $1 an hour, which they maintain is the highest in the motor industry.

Walter P. Reuther, director of the union's General Motors department, who issued today's strike announcement, said that a walkout would not affect workers "engaged on national defense orders which may be in the plants included in the strike call."

Government Intervenes.

San Francisco, Cal., May 11 (AP).—Government officials intervened today in the strike of 1,700 machinists in 11 shipyards as San Francisco and Oakland police made preparations to forestall any possible trouble. Rear Admiral John W. Greenslade, commandant of the 12th naval district, told reporters "Washington is in charge of the situation," but did not elaborate.

Employés contend the strike will tie up about $500,000,000 worth of armament contract work.

The strikers are asking $1.15 an hour as against $1.12 granted them recently in a coastwide agreement designed to stabilize all shipyard machinists' work.

Declared Outlaw Strike.

Paterson, N. J., May 11 (AP).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today labeled the San Francisco walkout of 1,700 AWL-CIO shipyard machinists "an outlawed strike," and said, "we are appealing to the unions there to rescind their strike action."

BLAME LEADERS FOR ECONOMIC, POLITICAL CRISIS

Ignorance Cause of Evil, Says Senator.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] last night told 1,000 members of the Catholic conference on industrial problems, that the present international crisis is due to failure of political and industrial leaders to understand industrial and economic problems. He was a principal speaker at the opening session of the three day conference at the Stevens hotel. The conference is being held under the patronage of Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney.

Basing this view on three years of study as chairman of the Temporary National Economic committee, the senator declared that this ignorance of leaders has produced a monstrous evil which is using everything that science and invention have devised to destroy human freedom.

Cause of Centralization.

"The reason for the development of this arbitrary centralization of power in our time is that industry and commerce are now organized on a national and international basis under which local economic independence has been undermined," O'Mahoney asserted. "Economic centralism produces political centralism.

"Big government follows directly in the steps of big business. Big labor is another result, because when the people are unable to control their own economic lives locally, they turn to centralized government to do it."

O'Mahoney mentioned armament contract awards of 13 billion dollars up till March 1 in proof of industrial "centralism." Four states, he said, received 39 per cent of the total while 15 states got 80 per cent. He added that 62 units received 80 per cent of the contracts.

"During the last half century the expansion of the United States government has kept pace with the growth of business," he said. "The Interstate Commerce commission was created back in 1887 when railroads grew so big that the states could not control them. President Harding signed the packers' and stockyards act which gave the department of agriculture power to regulate Chicago stockyards.

Tells of Vatican Ceremonies.

"The answer to all this is that since our theory of gbvernment is that the government shall speak for all the people, the federal government must regulate all interstate and international business. The TNEC declared for free enterprise—free of arbitrary private control before you can have it free from arbitrary central government control."

The conference was formally opened yesterday morning with solemn pontifical mass in Holy Name cathedral, with the Most Rev. Edwin V. O'Hara, bishop of Kansas City, Mo., the celebrant. Last night Bishop O'Hara told of colorful Vatican ceremonies a decade ago when Pope Pius XI. read his famed social encyclical, Quadragesimo Anno. The conference signifies the 10th anniversary of that encylical and the 50th anniversary of the encyclical of Pope Leo XIII., entitled De Rerum Novarum.

Steel Supplies for Civilian Use Reported Much Scarcer

Cleveland, O., May 11 (AP).—Steel available for civilian needs may soon reach the vanishing point, and by the year end "the ordinary citizen may find procurement of goods involving steel most difficult," the magazine Steel said today.

"Step by step developments are leading rapidly to imposition of complete priorities," the review said. "Following the imposition of an inventory control plan announced a week ago, all grades of iron and steel as well as all other metals in the so-called 'precious' group have been added to the critical list of the army and navy munitions board.

Revising Views on Needs.

"Moreover, Washington is revising rapidly its concept of needed steel capacity. As against present capacity of 83,000,000 tons yearly, OPM recently talked in terms of 92,000,000 tons needed, with a further estimate of 110,000,000 to 120,000,000 tons yearly by next year to provide adequate armaments, British needs, and civilian needs.

"These figures appear fantastic and their realization at this moment seems highly problematical. It is being predicted that automobile makers will be fortunate to get 50 per cent of their 1941 model tonnages.

"Not in years has the steel industry felt more strongly on any matter than present frozen steel prices after recent substantial raises of wages. Many are convinced that some way a price advance on steel is bound to come in a few months, if not sooner.

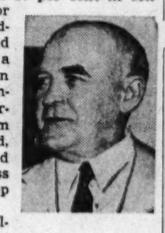
Week's Production Rises.

"Steel ingot production recovered 2½ points from the coal strike lag to 97½ per cent of capacity last week, a faster recovery than many had expected. Chicago district production rose 5½ points to 101½; Pittsburgh 1 to 94; Youngstown 6 to 95 and Cleveland 4 to 96½. New England district declined 5 to 90 and Cincinnati 1½ to 89. Unchanged districts were: Eastern Pennsylvania, 95; Buffalo, 90½; Birmingham, 90; St. Louis, 98, and Detroit and Wheeling, 88."

CROP LOAN HIKE WOULD RAISE PRICES OF FOOD

Gain of 10 to 20 Pct. Is Expected.

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP).—An increase of 10 to 20 per cent in consumer prices for meats, dairy products, eggs, and poultry, and a complete revision of the government's "food-for-defense" program may be expected, farm officials said today, if congress votes higher crop loans.



Sen. John H. Bankhead.

Many agricultural leaders in and out of congress, led by Senator John H. Bankhead [D., Ala.] and the American Farm Bureau federation, are pressing for legislation which would put "floors" under prices of cotton, corn, wheat, rice, and tobacco at 85 per cent of parity.

[Parity is a term used to describe a level of farm prices which would give crops as much purchasing power, in terms of nonfarm goods and services, as they had in 1909-14.

Rate 10 Per Cent Higher.

The 85 per cent price supporting loan rate is 10 per cent higher than the level on which the agriculture department has established a program designed to encourage farmers to produce more hogs, dairy, and poultry products to meet British needs as well as an expanding domestic market.

Under this food program the department set minimum prices for supporting hogs, butter, chickens, and eggs. Those prices [Chicago basis] were $9 per hundred pounds for hogs, 31 cents a pound for butter, 15 cents a pound for chickens, and 22 cents a dozen for eggs. They were based on plans of the department to support prices of corn—major feed crop— at 75 per cent of parity.

Officials said that if congress should require the loan rate to be raised to 85 per cent, the minimum prices for hogs, dairy, and poultry products would have to be increased, or there would be no inducement for farmers to produce more of these products.

Lifts Price Minimums.

Some officials said an 85 per cent loan rate may require minimums of $10 for hogs, 35 cents for butter, 17 cents for chickens, and 25 cents for eggs. They said such minimums would boost consumer costs 10 to 20 per cent above levels which could be expected to prevail under the present minima.

Administration officials concerned with preventing undue rises in prices were said to be planning to ask President Roosevelt to use his influence against the 85 per cent loan rate.

NEW YORK CENTRAL'S PROFITS SHOW LARGE GAIN IN FIRST QUARTER

The New York Central railroad company yesterday reported a net income of $6,383,656 after taxes and charges for the first three months of this year, equal to 99 cents each on the 6,447,413 capital shares. For the same period last year the company reported a deficit of $527,616.

In March the carrier had a net income of $2,959,110 after charges and taxes against a deficit of $709,058 in March, 1940.

The United Light and Railways company realized consolidated net income of $6,198,479 in 1940, compared with $5,710,080 in 1939, William G. Woolfolk, president, reported yesterday in his annual report.

ARTLOOM.

I notice that Artloom common is selling on the New York Stock exchange about midway between its 1940 high and low. I would appreciate having a comparison of the company's profits in recent years. Have any dividends been paid?—W. B.

Answer: An upturn in sales this year brought Artloom corporation almost a 100 per cent increase in profits. For the 12 week period ended last March 22, net income was $83,064, equal to 38 cents a common share after preferred dividends, against $42,069 or 17 cents a common share for the 12 weeks ended March 23, 1940. Unfilled orders on March 31 exceeded one million dollars.

Earnings of this weaving concern were as follows in the last five years:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Earned per com.
1936		$ 14,430	$0.13
1937	2,143,846	*154,723	*0.96
1938	1,979,219	* 96,927	*0.64
1939	4,976,638	248,907	1.09
1940	5,051,184	239,548	1.04

*Loss.

The improvement in business since 1938 has enabled the company to clear up dividend arrears on its preferred stock and to resume payments this year on its common stock for the first time since 1930. A common dividend of 25 cents a share was paid Jan. 31 and another of 12½ cents on May 10.

Capitalization consists of $100,000 in funded debt, 4,449 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value, and 200,000 shares of no par common stock.

Rugs and carpets manufactured by Artloom are marketed thru jobbers and sold directly to large retail organizations, such as Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward. Upholstery fabrics are taken mainly by Ford and Chrysler. The company's mills and main office are located in Philadelphia.

CAPITALIZATION.

In corporation reports there is usually reference to capitalization. What is meant by capitalization?—D. H.

Answer: Capitalization usually refers to the amount of money invested in a business. A cross-section statement of capitalization shows the funded or long term debt [shown in the aggregate or broken down into various classes of bonds], and the number of shares of each class of stock.

DEPARTMENT STORE.

Where does Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc., operate?—T. W.

Answer: Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc., conducts the largest department store business in the Pittsburgh area.

Karakuls in Illinois.

May 11, 1941.

THE eight pure bred Karakul sheep at the Du Page county farm are an unusual group to find on a middle western farm, as the breed is a native of southern Russia and Persia. Flocks in this country are found mainly in the arid and semiarid regions of the southwest. There are a few flocks in Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota, but Karakuls in Illinois are a rarity.

Karakul sheep furnish skins for some of the finest fur coats. Persian lamb, broadtail, and caracul coats are familiar to every one, but few people who wear the skins ever get a chance to see the type of animal from which their coats come.

History Is Vague.

The history of the Karakul is not definitely known. The breed got its name from the town of Kara Kul, in eastern Bokhara in the Uzbek soviet socialist republic. The foundation stock is believed to have been the Arabi sheep, whose blood was combined with another breed, the Black Dandar.

As the owners of sheep in Bokhara do not follow systematic methods of breeding, the Karakul has been regarded as a breed only in a general sense. However, work in this country has done much to standardize the breed, and breeders have started a pure bred registering association.

In the farm flock of Karakuls there are three ewes, four lambs, and one ram. The ram is a large bodied animal with curled horns that remind one of the horns on Rocky mountain sheep. His gray wool is long and coarse, and hangs in an even line to his hocks. There the wool ends abruptly, leaving four thin, black legs that seem too small to support the mass above them.

The ewes have coarse brown fur and large black ears jut at an odd angle from their heads. The difference in color between the ewes and the ram is due to a difference in age. The ram is about 5 years old, and the ewes are between 1 and 3.

The lambs are well shaped, and look like the ordinary lamb seen on a farm. Their wool is beautiful, and lies close to their backs in tight spiral waves that glisten in the sun.

Used in Fur Coats.

The lamb's fur, which is coal black, is used in various types of fur coats. The flock was purchased from a breeder in Hartford, Mich., and contains some splendid animals.

The conformation of the Karakul clearly shows that it never was designed to produce mutton. The top of the body is too narrow and uneven to permit a large quantity of meat in the regions of the valuable cuts. The leg lacks fullness, the rump is steep, the loin high, and the back is depressed behind the shoulders.

The breed is often called the broadtail because of a characteristic development of the rump. The sheep develop a great mass of fat weighing five or six pounds at the upper part of the tail that hangs down toward the hocks. These great rumps look as if they had been stuck on the animal as an afterthought.

(The breeding of Karakuls for their fur, and how the pelts are taken to make coats, will be discussed in a future column.]

LIQUIDATING

I am liquidating an estate located nine miles south of San Antonio city hall, served by two main highways and three other secondary roads.

There are 3,800 acres in this property; 1,000 acres in irrigation; two lakes, one 60 acres, the other 86 acres—now leased to hunting and fishing clubs; 2½ miles frontage on the San Antonio river with about 50 acres in pecan trees along the banks; 200 acres irrigated from the San Antonio river by ditches built over 200 years ago by the Franciscan Monks. We have a permanent water right, and the only expense is cleaning the ditch once a year.

I will be in Chicago May 14th, 15th, and 16th, and may be reached at Central 8534, or Drake Hotel; or after that time at 621 Travis Building, San Antonio, Tex. R. W. PATTON.

RAILROAD land grant lands $4 to $5 per acre for good farm land adapted for dairying, live stock and grains; good roads; water, town, and markets. Send for booklet No. 5. R. S. Claar, Land Dept., Soo Line, Minneapolis, Minnesota.
